Grass Lake teachers walk after negotiations fail

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

Despite several months of negotiations leading to a final, last ditch marathon effort to avert a strike, Grass Lake District 36 teachers and staff personnel decided to walk off their jobs on Jan. 6 as discussions stalled at the table.

According to Grass Lake Education President Ted Galvin, the teachers effort to end their reign as the lowest paid teachers in Lake County has resulted in a needless strike that wasn't necessary.

"We are just asking for a respectable salary," said Galvin. "Yes, we are asking for a 15 percent raise, but we are being paid so little right now that a 15 percent increase really isn't the issue."

teachers and 10 staff members at 275 student school begin at $18,609, compared to more than $21,000 for other area school districts.

Ironically, Grass Lake Board of Education officials agree with the fact that they are the lowest paid teachers in the county, but disagree with teachers that believe the salary schedule is disrespectful.

"The board is trying to be fiscally responsible," said Superintendent Ruth Bill. "A strike will be good for no one."

The board offered the teachers a six-percent across the board pay increase in a three-year deal, while the teachers requested a 15 percent increase in a one-year deal.

"The board has the money in the education fund," said Mark Reinstein of the Illinois Education Association. "The voters said they would pay for a teacher's increase, now the board refuses to give the teachers their respect. Just because they acknowledge that the teachers are the lowest paid in the county, doesn't mean its right."

Bill, however, reacted differently to the negotiating process.

"I know the board is disappointed because we have really worked hard to avoid this," said Bill. "We have really tried to make adjustments."

Those adjustments made at the nine-hour meeting, according to Bill, basically stemmed from a battle over the length of (Continued on Page 7)

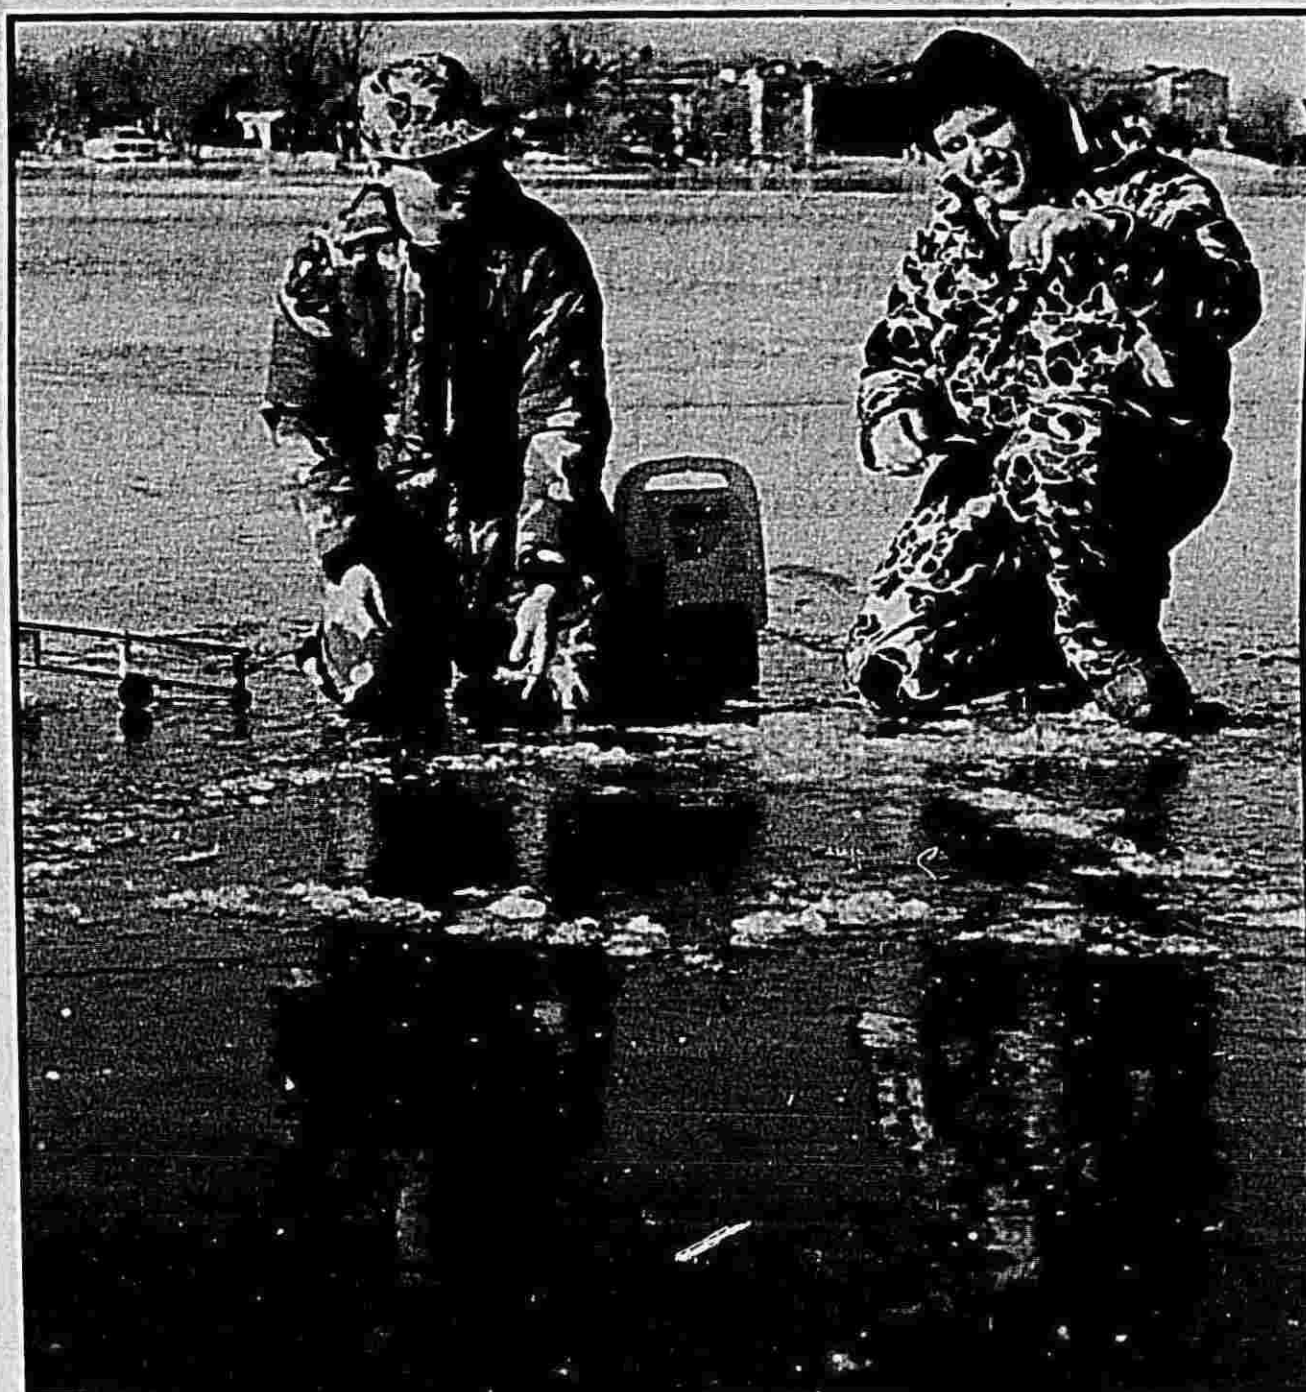

Martini to run against incumbent

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

Chain O' Lakes Waterway Director Judy Martini will run after all for Antioch Township supervisor in an effort to give township residents another choice than incumbent Jim Fields.

Martini, who lost to Fields in the March 1992 county board race that focused on the proposed Commonwealth Edison power line to Antioch, now hopes another Antioch controversy will be enough to unseat the 17-year veteran supervisor.

Community continues to sink riverboat

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

Despite having the support of area political heavyweights like Robert Depke and Jim Fields, the proposed Antioch riverboat gambling site still faces a mountain of opposition from local residents.

These township residents, who formed the support group Against Riverboat Casino, continued to voice their opposition to a gambling site at a public hearing at Antioch Grade School, despite the fact that the Lake County Board had already voted 11-9 in favor of the Fox River site along Rte. 173.

Fields defends 'yes' vote

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

Antioch Township Supervisor and Lake County Board member Jim Fields continues to defend his support of a proposed riverboat gambling site near Antioch, despite severe opposition to it.

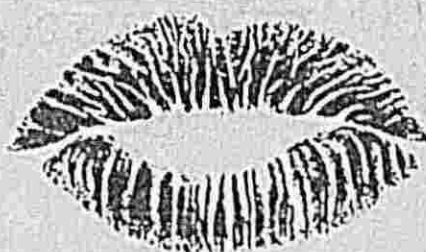

"My decision, I believe, was in the best interests of the township," said Fields. "Everyone on the board I talked to said that they wished the site was in their (Continued on Page 7)

AARP meeting

At the meeting, Glenn Peterson will be selling tickets to the Ice Capades for March 24, which includes lunch at the White Eagle.

SURE party first to finalize April slate

LAKE VILLA—The first of possibly three tickets for the eight Lake Villa Township positions open for election on April 20 is now finalized and the others may follow suit soon. The Service, Unity, Responsibility, Experience Party, led by the party's township supervisor candidate Karen Sullivan, is a non-partisan group committed to working with and for all township citizens.

No board action for park, developer talk

GRAYSLAKE—Grayslake Mayor Marv Smith will continue to take a "hands off" approach when it comes to another taxing body's negotiations with a developer. "I have faith in the park and school district's negotiations with developers," Smith said. "An eighth grade geography student can tell that is a mud-hole," resident Mary Jane Lucas said. Lucas was referring to 52 acres of land accepted by Grayslake Community Park Dist. as a donation from Pulte's Chesapeake subdivision.

Area Quad 2 teams join casualty unit

A concerted effort by five fire departments has resulted in a mass casualty unit at a minimal cost to taxpayers.

The Quad 2 departments — Fox Lake, Round Lake, Grayslake, Lake Villa and Antioch — teamed to build the mobile unit, which can handle 45 patients after disasters like bus and train wrecks.

The equipment includes things like oxygen, back boards, collars and splints.

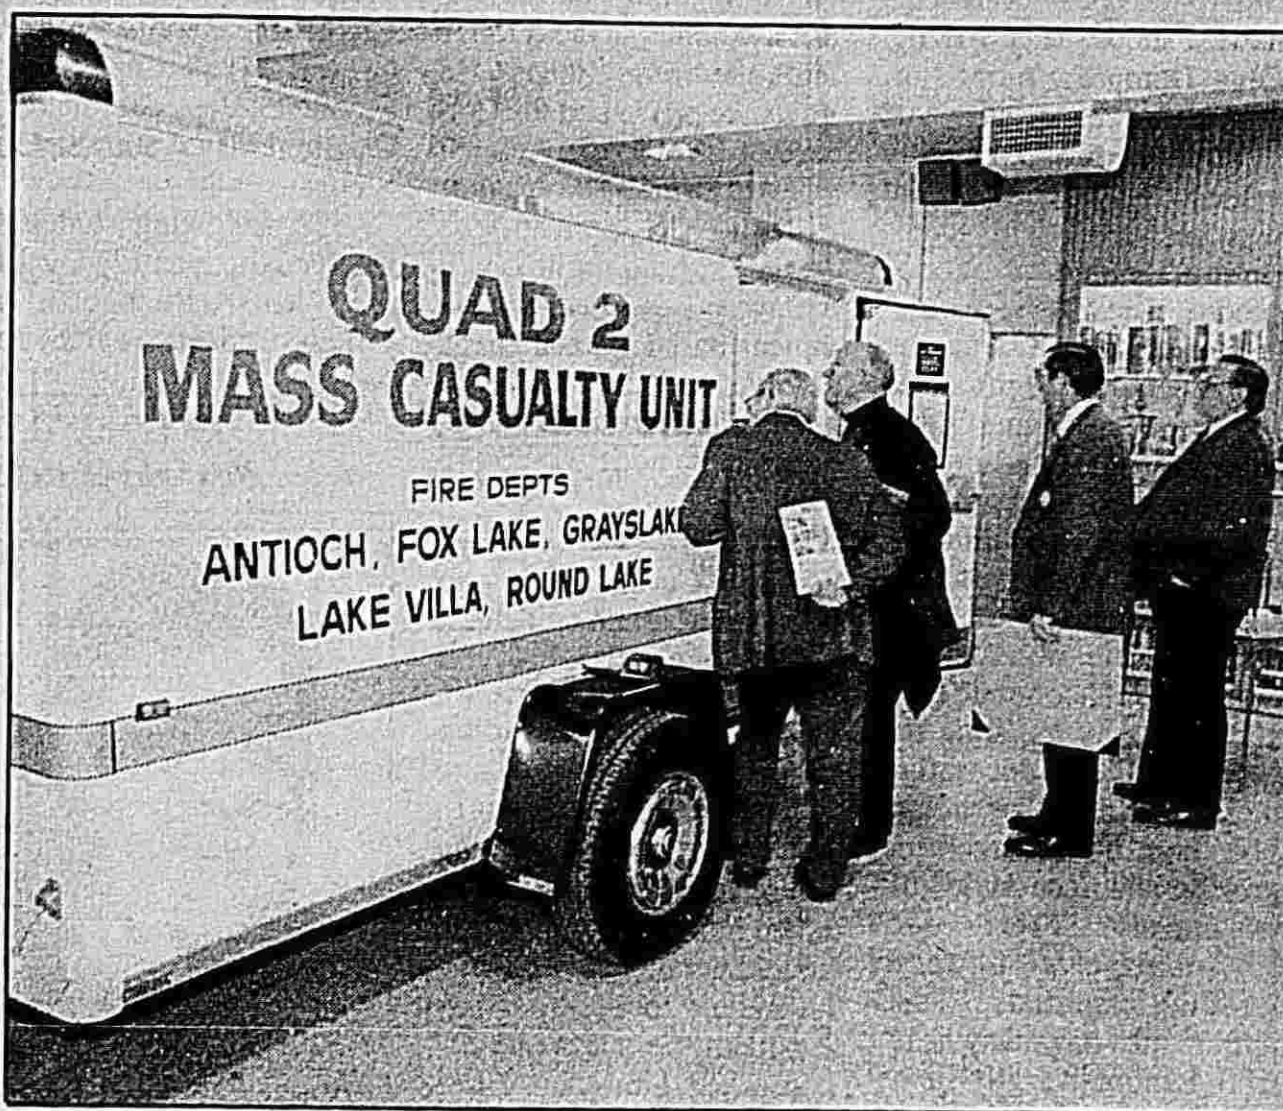

"It's set up for any accident," said Fox Lake Fire Chief Stu Hoehne. "We can even start IV's."

Hoehne said the unit would have cost around $25,000, but that amount was cut in half by Quad 2 cooperation. Fox Lake did much of the hands-on work, while the other departments donated material.

"One of the reasons we all went in together was to save money," Hoehne said. "We'll be doing more of that with that type of equipment to save the taxpayers money."

In addition, representatives from the Quad 2 departments meet monthly to discuss equipment needs. The departments then buy together in quantity to save money.

The unit is currently being housed by the Fox Lake department, but it will be moved to Round Lake — a more central location — after one of Round Lake's stations undergoes a major revamping.

Riverboat's wake could remodel hotel

by GREG MILLER
Lakeland Newspapers

Pete Jakstas Sr. hopes the good times will roll again at the venerable Mineola Hotel if riverboats are 'rollin' on the river.

If the riverboats do come, Jakstas has plans to remodel and re-open the historic hotel, which has not offered lodging since the 1960s.

"We're hoping this riverboat gambling goes through," Jakstas said. "It'll mean tourism, and tourism means dollars."

"Riverboat gambling will definitely help. There'll be a spin off for everybody on the Chain of Lakes. It'll generate a lot of jobs. The more employment we have, the better off everybody will be. If people can work locally, it's better for the economy."

This year marks the 100th birthday of the Mineola. The four-story, 100-room hotel is the largest frame building in Illinois and has been listed on the U.S. Department of the Interior's National Registry of Historic Places since 1979.

The hotel has been owned by the Jakstas family for half of that century, although only the bar and restaurant have been in operation since the '60s. Jakstas is planning a 50-year celebration in conjunction with this year's Fourth of July fireworks display over Mineola Bay.

In the '40s and '50s, fishing, boating, live entertainment and slot machines made the Mineola a destination for people from far and wide.

"The people would come out here to relax — a lot of them came by train," Jakstas said. "They'd spend their time fishing off the pier, and we rented boats then. We had live entertainment six nights a week in the '40s and early '50s. A big attraction into the late '40s was the slots."

"At one point, we had 50 employees at the hotel. Now, we have nine. That's a far cry from what it was in its heyday."

Jakstas said the return of gambling could generate a boom in the business of pleasing people.

"There were 20 hotels in Fox Lake in its heyday. You can count them on one hand now. The area can't support hotels — the tourism dollars are not there."

Jakstas said a laissez-faire attitude helped businesses like the Mineola in the old days.

"The village fathers realized the money was there. We used to open up Friday morning and we didn't lock up until Monday night. It was an unwritten law — as long as you turned off the outside lights and didn't cause any problems you could stay open. If there were no problems for the police department, there were no problems for the bar owners."

If the state awards the gaming license for the site on the Fox River near Rte. 173, Jakstas plans to remodel the hotel one floor at a time. He said he calculated the cost several years ago but will have to go back to the drawing board because of changes in building codes and rising costs.

"The interior will have to be completely remodeled," Jakstas said. "Structurally, it's there."

Senior tax break forms due on April 1

Antioch Township Assessor Cliff Houghton announced that home exemptions for seniors are due in his office by April 1. Duplicate notices can be sent to relatives or friends homes also to ensure seniors remember to pay their yearly property tax bill. Applicants need to be 65 during 1993 and show proof of age, residency and a copy of the deed.

Miller decides to hang it up

Grant Twp. Supervisor Alberta "Bertie" Miller announced that she will retire from the post she has held 12 years at the conclusion of her current term in April.

"I love my job, but I haven't had a real vacation since taking over this job. I'd like to have some time for myself and do some traveling. I'm 70, you know," added the jovial public official who was appointed supervisor in 1979 after the death of the late Supervisor Harry Robin.

In announcing her retirement, Miller described the supervisor's job as "not an easy office." She said there are so many demands on the supervisor. Miller pointed out that she maintained an office telephone in her home. "I believe I've been a devoted public official."

Supervisor Miller said she was announcing her retirement early so that successors will have time to take out nominating petitions. "I'd like to see a contest for the office," exclaimed Miller, who went to work in the supervisor's office in 1971 as an all-around aide to Robin. "I did everything in the office," Miller chuckled.

Miller defeated Joseph Tobolik in her first campaign and ran unopposed in successive races.

Town Clerk Gordon Kiesgen announced plans earlier to run for supervisor. Kiesgen and Miller discussed the 1993 election at a pre-New Years Eve get-together. "I told Gordy, 'If you want the office, then run for it, but don't expect me to hand over the job,'" Miller declared.

The retiring supervisor has one daughter, four sons and nine grandchildren. A son was lost in Vietnam. Miller's late husband, Robert, was active in public affairs and served as a trustee of the Fox Lake Fire Dist. The South Grant Fire Station was dedicated in his honor.

Just look for one of the prettiest window displays around!

A special place

You've heard of people falling asleep behind the wheel, well that is exactly what little Frankie Walsh did at Camp Crayon one afternoon. The boys love to play with our toy trucks and some of them play really hard and heavy with them. Frankie is one of those boys.

However, on this particular Thursday, his playing got the best of him and he literally fell asleep on the truck. All of a sudden we glanced under one of our tables and there he was asleep and using the truck for a pillow. Miss Marie picked him up onto her lap but he did not stir. She called his name quietly and he finally woke up. He gave her a look that said, "Why are you in my bedroom?" and snuggled right back to sleep.

Miss Marie's only regret was that she didn't have her camera on hand to capture the moment. It would have looked like a Norman Rockwell painting—a little blue-jeaned, blonde, bundle of joy, snuggling upon a toy truck. How priceless.

Scholarship
The Antioch Junior Women's Club offers a $500 scholarship to anyone residing in Antioch Twp. who is or will be a full-time student at a two or four year college. Applications for this scholarship are available at the Village Hall, the library, the ACHS guidance office and the College of Lake County Financial Aid Office. The deadline to return the application is April 23. A committee will anonymously select the recipient based on scholastic ability, merit and financial need. The successful candidate will be notified early in May.

Torn

Little Curtis Theel, who is a second grade student at Grass Lake School, found himself in a dilemma on this particular, snowy school day. He moved extra slow this particular morning and sort of moped around. When his mother asked him what was wrong, he told her he didn't know if he wanted to go to school. Realizing he was not sick, she asked him why not—his reply was, "Mom, it snowed!"

While Curtis enjoys school, he enjoys a good romp in the snow and sledding outings equally as much. His concern was that by the time school let out the snow would be gone. When Mom assured him there would still be plenty of snow on the ground to enjoy when he came home, he went off to school as usual, with a smile on his face and eager to learn.

Slightly belated

Two of my favorite people recently turned 30 years young and I was lax in my duties to wish them a very special Happy Thirtieth Birthday from Lizard and readers.

My adopted step-daughter, Cynthia Marquart, turned the big 30 and several of her friends and husband surprised her with a dinner gathering and a special night out on the town.

A month later (to the day), Debbie Foerster hit the same age. I've known Debbie ever since she and my daughter, Donna, attended Grass Lake School and ACHS together. As it turns out, Cindy and Debbie have something else in common. Besides leaving their twenties behind in 1992, they both have kindergarten students at Grass Lake School. I love the way history repeats itself around here.

Thank you

Thanks, Don Bergl, for the terrific blackboard. It will definitely come in handy for playing "Pictionary." Think of all the practicing I can do before our next match!

Where?

On a recent Friday evening, I called to talk with my dear friend Darlene Olenick. However, she was not home and hubby Robert took my call. I identified myself and asked if Darlene was there. He told me she was not and went on to say he had just gotten in from work. He instructed me to hang on and he would read

After a moment, he came back on the line and informed me she was at "choir practice." I inquired, "Choir practice? I didn't know she was in a choir!" He remarked that he didn't either and took a second look at her note. After the second reading, he said, "I think she's at chair practice." I naturally asked, "What's chair practice?" Just as naturally, he did not know. I said, "Maybe she went some place with the kids." This sent him back to the note a third and final time. This final, closer look solved the mystery of Darlene's whereabouts. She had, in fact, gone to the "chiropractor."

Does close count, or should I say "oops" to Robert? Perhaps it is time to invest in reading glasses?

Short message

To Cathy Dunfrund I say, "Fantastic!"

To my readers I say, "More will follow at a later date."

unfairly," said Martini. "Fields didn't listen to his constituents when he voted for the Antioch site."

Martini said she decided to run for supervisor after Fields refused to ask the Lake County Board for a delay on granting permission for the Antioch site to Fox Riverboat Limited Partnership until a public hearing in Antioch could be held. Fields, after voting in favor of the site, decided to have a public meeting in Antioch to hear the area's concerns.

Martini believes Fields should have investigated the issue further before allowing himself to vote in favor of something that most of the community does not want.

"He should have investigated this more," said Martini. "I know he has the best interests of Antioch in his heart, but learned that a number of residents were against this and still refused to listen to them until after he voted."

Fields, who will now continue discussions with area business leaders and township residents on the issue, still believes the site could be a boon for Antioch and wishes that more people, who are in favor of the site, would speak up on the issue.

Martini, who has just picked up her campaign materials, will run as an independent and believes she has a good chance to unseat Fields.

"My running is in the best interests of Antioch Township," said Martini. "I think I'm going to beat him."

district."

Fields, who has been under fire by local residents since the controversial county board vote, now wants to talk to area business leaders and other groups to determine how the site will affect the township. Fields refused to speculate on whether the discussions with these groups would change his mind.

"Will I change my mind?" said Fields. "After talking to these groups it is possible that I will change my mind."

Most of Fields' criticism resulted from his scheduling of a public meeting on the riverboat issue.

A fishing derby to remember

by RANDY ZELEN

Annually the Northern Illinois Conservation Club hosts its ice fishing derby on the Chain O'Lakes. My earliest recollections bring back fond memories of family and friends brought together to celebrate this festive occasion. Growing up on the Wisconsin-Illinois border we were fortunate to be raised with the cool winter pastimes of snowmobiling, ice boating, cross country skiing and ice fishing. An annual angler trek in February to Grandma's house was and still is one of the highlights here in the Great White North.

It's only now, as my mother has attained super senior status at age 80, that a warm hearted story which occurred many years ago can be told.

Living 30 miles away from Ma's house, for the sake of convenience, I asked her to pick up an assortment of bait prior to the ice fishing derby. She agreed and a list was prepared and monies exchanged to pick up the bait. The list, in my best handwriting, asked for four to six golden roaches (Northern Pike bait) and 12—a dozen—minnows. No big deal, right? Surely a dozen minnows and a few golden roaches for the tip ups would provide our family with more than enough food for the fish we were seeking.

The night prior to the derby, my mother judiciously went to the local bait shop and proceeded to procure bait as shown on the list. The bait store attendant was taken aback when asked for 46 golden roaches and 12 dozen minnows! When questioned, my mother, a mere five feet tall in high heels, in her patented stoic expression replied, "My son has fished ever since he was old enough to hold a fishing pole! I even took him fishing when he was in a stroller before he could walk!" Needless to say, Mother held my fishing prowess in high esteem, and motives for such a large order of bait was not to be refuted. Dutifully the attendant supplied the bait and Ma was on her merry way.

The day had finally arrived for the ice angler pilgrimage to Grandma's Fishing Derby, as the kids affectionately called it. Once in the door, the aroma of simmering hot chili and baked ham permeated the air. Irregardless of today's catch we knew all would be well fed. Pleasantries were exchanged and off to fetch the bait in the basement.

Walking down the stairs I could hear the bubbler's working overtime in the minnow buckets. Pulling the aerator hoses out, I opened the tops of the live bait containers, and what a sight to behold. The bait store had indeed been generous. This must be one of those Senior Citizen Discounts they are always talking about. So upstairs with bait buckets in tow, thinking to myself there was probably more bait in these buckets than fish in the lake!

Back upstairs I glanced at my mother with a puzzled look. "Ma, where is the list for the bait?" Producing the list from her purse, I apologized for my poor penmanship and explained the error. Her hearty reply was, "I thought that was awful expensive for bait." The kids looked in awe and conjured up ideas of starting a bait shop of their own. Other family members soon caught wind of what had transpired and a small rumbling of laughter finally climaxed into a roar, filling the house with uncontrolled laughter.

Thinking this was the end of our great bait caper, we trudged through the snow with kids, food and fishing gear secured to the toboggan. A relatively sparse crowd was setting up on the lake to fish. A number of sweat-soaked holes were drilled and since there were no other anglers in our immediate vicinity, massive quantities of bait were released. It gave the kids great pleasure to set the little fishes free. They must have acquired their catch-and-release ethic from this fishing trip.

After a couple of hours went by, more ice fisherpeople started to persevere the elements and join the derby. A couple of anglers started setting up next to me and I couldn't help but overhear their conversation. They stated, "Bait was hard to come by this morning at the local bait shop. Some lady came in last night and bought lots of his bait." Trying to keep a straight face, I strolled over and offered them a generous amount of golden roaches and minnows, stating, "Fishing is slow and I'll never use all the bait I have." Boy, was that an understatement! Didn't have the heart to tell them the lady they were referring to was my dear mother. The ice anglers were in good spirits and happy to receive this free bounty of bait. In my own way I felt relieved that someone else could share and further this ice fishing tale.

Will always remember this cold day in February was indeed my mother's most memorable fishing derby. It wasn't the few fish caught this day which made it special, but the warm feeling of family and friends experiencing tradition.

a new agreement. "A discussion over a possible two-year deal occurred but the teachers wanted to re-open the negotiations after one year," said Bill. This, according to Bill, would really only re-packaging a one-year deal.

Galvin said the teachers and staff are united in the strike effort and board talk of re-opening the school with substitute teachers could lengthen talks.

"I don't know how long the strike will last, but there are no other meetings with the board planned in the near future," said Galvin.

Riverboat

"We are against this site for morale, economic and negative community impact reasons," said Rev. Kurt Gamlin, leader of the ARC group at the public hearing. "We really don't want this in our backyards."

Also attending the meeting were elements of the Fox Riverboat Limited Partnership, who are elated with the county board's decision to approve the site for possible licensing by the state gaming commission.

"One of the most important reasons why we chose the Antioch area was we want to return tourism to the Chain O' Lakes area," said FRLP Chairman Glenn Seidenfeld. "We are targeting a different type of person to the area."

But the partnership's "build it, they will come" approach, according to many opposition leaders, will just cause problems, not solve the area's economic woes as promised.

"I just don't think Mr. Fields listened to his constituency when he made this decision," said Martini.

Approval for the final riverboat site, according to state gaming officials, could come either in the late spring or early summer, with the first boat floating down an Illinois river by May 1994.

Greetings from Finland

by KATHY HOLMES

Ding, Ding, Ding. The clock strikes nine on Dec. 24, 1992. It is Christmas Eve day all over the world, but most importantly to me in Levi, Finland. I rise to the sound of children scattering about and the sweet smell of Finnish "pulla" in Lewis in the 1988 Olympics. It is all much like a fairy tale, or maybe just a lot like the critically acclaimed television show "Little House on the Prairie." in any case the family gathers to decorate the tree as best they can. In the end, it turns out a sight for sore eyes and the relieved (no policemen had caught up with them) and proud family poses for a photo of Christmas 1992.

the air. I open my pine bedroom door to hear so many "Merry Christmas" and "good morning" greetings from my excited host family.

It is Christmas Eve morning. That is quite different in Finland. All the rituals and traditions are performed on the eve of the Christmas holiday (Joulua)—never on the actual day! It is marvelous to be a part of.

We all sit down to a festive Christmas breakfast with Christmas porridge (similar to rice pudding), all sorts of Christmas breads and cheeses, and luxuries of all kinds. Glogi, a Swedish drink, is served all around the table. Everyone is happy, happy that it is Christmas.

The dishes are cleared and now it is time to look for the Christmas tree! The family hunts high and low for the perfect Christmas tree and soon it is found. It stands tall and proud and seems to call something out to the excited young family. It is calling, "please don't cut me down. You know it's illegal!" After a few glances for any wandering highway patrolman, the powerful (yet petite) saw emerges. A cry of "timber" is not heard throughout the bustling forest. The fact is that the family is near ulceric now due to the constant worry and concern over going to prison for the holidays.

Tourism: huge industry

If riverboat gambling becomes a reality in Lake County, the attraction will be only one of a vast array of choices open to visitors.

All the hoopla surrounding the possibility of riverboat gambling coming to Lake County has left the impression that Lake County is a visitors wasteland waiting to be rescued by the boundless joy and torrent of dollars that only water-born gambling can produce. Nothing is farther from the truth.

Riverboat gambling promoters have been purposefully neglectful or unintentionally ignorant of the fact that tourism is and has been a major industry in the county for many years. No accurate figures on the economic impact of tourism in the county are available. The Lake County Convention and Visitors Bureau, an arm of county government, estimates that 14 million persons visit Lake County every year for fun and recreation. Using a modest rule of thumb of $15 expenditure per person that totals up to an industry generating a half billion dollars in business annually.

Gail Swensen, visitor bureau director, reported that $4 million has been spent in the office to attract visitors in the last seven years. For 1993, the state already has earmarked $360,000 for Lake County tourism to be matched by local funds to promote tourism. That's a tidy sum.

Where do people go when they come here? Six Flags Great America, probably Lake County's most widely known attraction, drew more than three million admissions last year, an all-time high. In actuality, Lake County has one of the most diverse tourist "menus" in the state.

For outdoors lovers there are two state parks; a county park system; boating, fishing and water sports on the Chain O'Lakes/Fox River. Lake Michigan charter boats provide a deep sea fishing experience. Golfers have a wide choice of challenges and fees for their favorite sport.

For shoppers there are world class malls and the unique Long Grove shopping district. Lake County possesses a substantial orchard network where visitors can "pick their own" or purchase fruit. The Lake County Fair is a major attraction every summer and the fairgrounds are in use 51 weeks a year for a variety of events.

Lake County's colleges and universities have world-wide reputations. The Serbian Church has midwestern headquarters in the county. A visit to the grounds and campus of St. Mary of the Lake University is like a trip to another land. Lake County's two military installations host countless visitors. The county's newest attraction is the Commonwealth Edison Co. energy center, "Powerhouse," at Zion. The county's magnificent performing Lippizan horses at Temple Smith Farms are known far and wide.

Adding up all the attractions and interesting things to do, Lake County is a true mecca for tourists. The addition of riverboat gambling in reality would be just another of a long list of things to entertain visitors. In the words of one tourism executive, riverboat gambling will be "another element, another part of our package."

That puts the highly controversial attraction in perspective.

Chain begins with jobs

Major developers should refocus on beginning of home building chain---creation of a job.

Major home builders, the tract developers, are pessimistic about 1993. While there still will be a demand for housing here and elsewhere in the suburbs, industry gloom is based on prospects of the demand shifting from high profit expensive dwellings to a more narrow market in the $120,000 to $180,000 home price range.

As the decade of the 90s unfolds, big builders are dealing more every day with tighter margins, increases in the cost of doing business and more competition, both from among themselves and hundreds of small contractors.

Speaking out at a meeting of industry leaders, Roger Gatewood, Gurnee-based developer and incoming president of the Home Builders Assn. of Greater Chicago, focused on a frequently-overlooked phenomenon: housing is directly related to job creation. In open-space rich Lake County, the industry attitude for too many years has been "build a house and they will come" (especially an expensive house.) Uninformed politicians incorrectly see the mere building as an economic plus. As a participant in the landmark county study on affordable housing, Gatewood knows that providing jobs is an integral part of the process. That's where bedrock economic gain begins.

All of the big name builders who have enjoyed a happy hunting ground in Lake County for so many years might well consider a challenge for the remainder of the decade---involving themselves in the total economic development process beginning, as Gatewood suggests, with creation of a job. Then the need for housing becomes fact instead of a perceived notion of a developer.

Letters to the Editor

District not cheap

Editor:

Dist. 114 Union President Linnea Michel received pay increases totaling 101 percent since 1986, 28 percent and 20 percent in 1990 and 1991 alone. Her salary is $36,841 for nine months work, approximately $30 per hour. This should not occasion picket signs criticizing our poor community of being "cheap and unfair."

How about a little gratitude to the taxpayers and a little shame in explaining to the children that despite these huge increases in money spent on teachers, their test scores haven't risen at all.

An anemic legislature has hamstrung school board's ability to impact favorably on the children's learning environment. Allow the boards to put the best teachers they can afford in the classroom, like any other business, and improved learning will begin. Lacking that we can only hope for a strike and some backbone in this community to support the school board in bringing in teachers who look for satisfaction as much from their students progress as their pocketbooks.

Excessive school debt

Editor:

You may be surprised to learn that the debt within Antioch High School Dist. 117 presently exceeds that of North Chicago. The education fund of Dist. 117 has been reported within the last few days to have a current shortfall exceeding $2 million ($2,056,976). This is particularly worrisome in view of the present education fund tax rate of 1.32 which exceeds the state limit of .92 by over 43 percent. Meanwhile, in the midst of the growing debt, the board has routinely

Guessing games spark welcome of New Year

by BILL SCHROEDER

During all the holiday hustle and bustle, two questions kept popping up amid family gatherings and reveling: What kind of president will Bill Clinton be? Will Mike Ditka be coach of the Bears in 1993?

In Ditka's case, everyone knows what kind of coach Mike will be. Make that Iron Mike. As for President-elect Clinton, a patchwork tapestry of opinion has evolved. Guesses are all over the place.

Some personal observations about the incoming commander-in-chief: Clinton's cabinet picks appeared to be designed to show who's boss as much as anything. Just enough response to the "mandate for change" to keep the special interest wolves at bay. Was it my imagination or are all the males in the cabinet shorter than the president? During the holiday photo ops, the president-elect seemed to be garbed most of the time in sweats and a baseball cap. Is that Clinton's way of telling us that he's a regular guy?

Mr. Conservative, Congressman Phil Crane, expects to see our new president working from the center of the road. "Moderation will be the byword," predicts Crane, who's going back to Washington with flying colors. Crane is excited about working with southern Democratic conservatives in Congress. "Working together we can get some good things done," Crane remarked over a sandwich during the holidays.

The fact that Bill Clinton is a brilliant practical politician bodes well for the nation. Clinton will keep a tight rein on all the wild horses in the Democratic party because he knows full well, as one noted national columnist put it, that he won "by a molehill-slide in terms of popular votes."

As for reorganizing the U.S. economy as the Democratic nominee promised during the campaign, the president-elect already is backing off from that hard-line stance, opting for solving fundamental economic problems on a long-term basis. View that in terms of deliberation and moderation.

That's the best national political news to start a new year.

passed three sizable pay raises.

While North Chicago borrowed from outside lenders making their actions visible to the state, Dist. 117 has played an internal "shell game." By shuttling millions of dollars from one fund to another, it is suspected their intent was to hide the actual financial condition from state auditors and avoid scrutiny such as that in North Chicago.

Riverboat home available

Editor:

Who will win big in the riverboat gambling proposal for northwest Lake County is an easy question to answer. Just follow the money.

It is clear that the riverboat gambling facility should be located in the Village of Fox Lake. Fox Lake has a commuter rail line from Chicago, and the easy automobile access of Rte. 12. They have excellent police, fire and safety services, a group of citizens who favor the gambling facility, and most importantly for the project itself, available sewer facilities to handle the volume of wastes which will be generated by the project. Two developers have plans for hotel complexes in the village as well.

The current proposal would provide no benefit to Fox Lake. As a matter of fact, sewer access is a critical criteria used by the State of Illinois when evaluating riverboat gambling casino license applications. The only way a permit could be obtained absent a sewer is if the wastes are pumped from holding tanks and trucked to a processing facility. If this is the direction to be pursued by the partnership, that means Fox Lake accrues no revenue benefits, but will in all likelihood have the privilege of treating the raw septic material. Is that the stake Fox Lake should receive?

What is at stake here is not just the future of Fox Lake. The sad reality is that if the county controls the vast majority of the revenues generated by riverboat gambling, it can be said with a high degree of certainty that little if any of these funds will be spent west of Rte. 45---let alone for property tax relief. It will be spent on road, water and sewer extensions to increase residential development, and our taxes again, during a time when all we want it some relief from our outrageous property taxes.

Are teachers good role models?

SOME TEACHER TALK

Teachers are professionals. We look up to them, right? For many of our children they are role models.

Okay, how about a Round Lake school teacher named Kim Kirby? A regional representative for the Illinois Educational Assn., he attended last month's Round Lake Dist. 116 board meeting.

In need of a shave, beard trim, haircut, shoe shine, and pants with a crease, he drank a bottle of Coke before the meeting. The meeting, itself, was spent "kicking the can (bottle)" in the words of one school board member. What Kirby and his wife were methodically doing was peel the label from the bottle.

During the meeting Kirby and his wife, Jean, joined Round Lake teacher union President Terry Zumbrook in criticizing one board member for attending a school meeting in Fox Lake.

Board President Robert Hubka said it was not a regular meeting. "We often attend meetings in neighboring districts," he said. "It's good to see what other boards are doing and how they conduct business."

As for Jean Kirby, she is a member of the Grayslake High School board. She regularly lobbies for more teachers, programs and spending. She does it in Grayslake, and, at this meeting, in Round Lake.

Is this the double standard at work?

While checking some of this out, I called Mark Reinstein, director of the Illinois Education Assn. for this area. I asked him about the Round Lake rhubarb.

"I think Hubka's an ass....," he said in a tone usually reserved for the negotiating table.

He's supposed to be a role model, too.

FOREMAN'S FUTURE

One-time Lake County State's Atty. Fred Foreman will soon be out of a job as U.S. district attorney for Northern Illinois. The incoming Democrats don't want Republicans like Foreman hanging around.

What's his future? I asked Antioch

Atty. Robert Long. He ran against Foreman for Lake County state's attorney as a Democrat five years ago.

"My guess is he will be given a job with Jim Thompson's (former governor) old Chicago law firm, Winston and Strong," Long predicted.

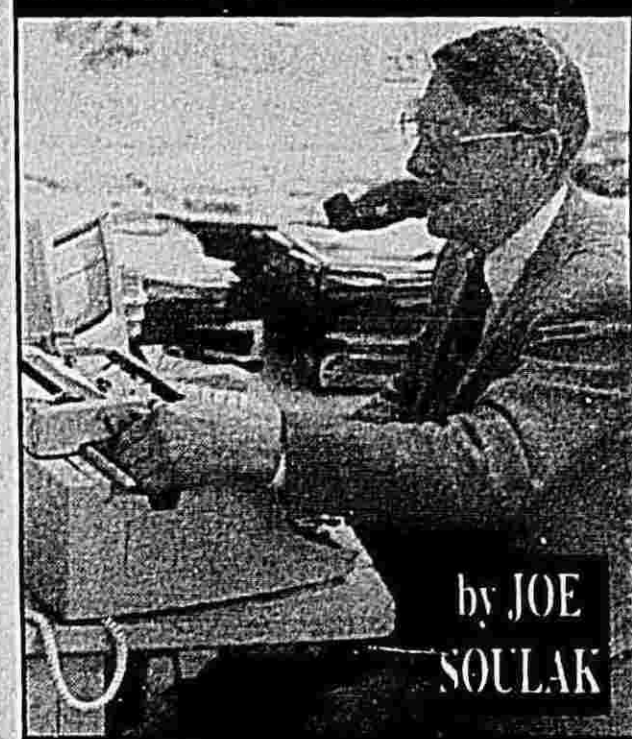

"Then, he will be nominated for state attorney general. In this state the governor traditionally comes from that office or the secretary of state. If he doesn't make it there I would guess that's the last you hear of Foreman for awhile."

ROUND LAKE BEACH—If there's any earth moving or sewer and water work to be done by the village, the word is: "Call Chain O' Lakes Plumbing." The firm gets more than a fair amount of village work. Why? Ask Mayor Carl Schrimpf. LAKE BLUFF—Mark Reinstein, director of the Illinois Education Assn. for this area, likes to cry wolf. He gets paid for talking tough. Two weeks ago he flatly predicted teacher strikes at Fox Lake and Grass Lake grade schools. Fox Lake settled amid the saber rattling. Both sides are still talking at Grass Lake, which took a strike last year.

Deer have become the scapegoats for the loss of land due to development. Powerless to attack the real problem: over population of people and their infringement on animal habitat, forest preserve management has targeted deer as the sacrificial victim.

In the ongoing war between man and nature the animals strike out again. They continue to pay the price for man's lack of foresight and concern for the environment. Death by gunshot or hitting over the head with a steel rod is preferable because it is quicker and cheaper than sterilization or relocation.

Neutering of male deer is a relatively simple procedure and can be performed on site after tranquilization. Females require more complicated surgery but it still can be performed on site with the deer benefiting from the technique.

Relocation has been done at Ryerson Woods in Lake County. Some deer were traumatized by the methods used and died. Others survive in their new locale.

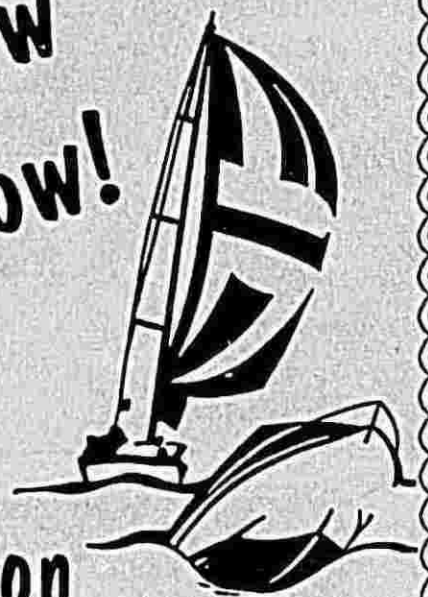

Before going off on a shooting and bludgeoning spree why not give the alternatives a chance? John Oldenberg, superintendent of grounds and natural resources, doesn't need to continue the old methods of barbaric killing to ease his plant loss. There are alternative in sterilization and relocation.

If funds are a problem, why not create a fund for animals from the sale of all lands to be developed? The fund can help pay for the neutering or moving necessary for the animal's survival. The animals deserve a break. We all do.

Look like a million without spending hundreds

by GREG MILLER
Lakeland Newspapers

Got an invitation to that special occasion but don't have a thing to wear? And your budget's tighter than a size 8 on Roseanne Arnold?

Never fear — the Dressing Room Boutique, 1757 N. Milwaukee Ave. in Libertyville, has brought fancy duds rental to the distaff side.

Ever since a Neanderthal borrowed a newly cured animal skin to attend the premiere of some cave drawings, guys have been able to dodge buying formal wear by renting it. Why buy a tuxedo when you'll wear one only two or three times in your entire life?

At the Dressing Room Boutique, Brenda Armstrong and her daughter Carla think women should be offered the same options when it comes time to be all dressed up with a place to go. The idea is to look like a million without spending hundreds.

"We came up with the idea between us," Brenda explained. "We thought customers would appreciate the opportunity to spend a little and still look good."

"Women have to go out and pay $300, $400 or $500," Carla said. "It doesn't make sense."

"Instead of buying a dress for $400 — or even $1,000 — you can rent one for $40 to $60," Brenda said.

Not only is renting a formal a good idea for women who rarely need one, it's smart thinking for society gadabouts.

"Some of our clients are going to several functions, and some of the same people will be there," Brenda said. "They don't want to wear the same dress to all of them."

The Dressing Room Boutique paints the entire picture of loveliness by also offering the proper accouterments. Jewelry, purses, shoes and furs are available for rental.

Brenda said their plan has been well-received. The New Year's period was especially busy. The boutique also offers less-than-formal party dresses.

The Dressing Room Boutique is a year-round proposition, however, selling high-quality new items and like-new clothing on a consignment basis.

The Dressing Room Boutique is the latest of the Armstrong family's enterprises. The boutique is located next door to Armstrong's Country Connection, while Armstrong's Upholstery and Armstrong's Furniture Outlet are in Beach Park. Brenda's husband Bert and their other daughter Angela round out the clan.

The Armstrongs opened the Country Connection 4 1/2 years ago. Brenda said something was missing until they took over the neighboring boutique three months ago.

"Clothing was always an area we wanted to get into, but we didn't have the space," Brenda said. "Next door we have collectibles, antiques, hand-crafted items and some vintage clothing — furs, lace, beaded tops."

Some of the brand-names offered at the boutique include Anne Klein, Sterling Cooper, Albert Nippon and Liz Claiborne.

The emphasis is on being customer-friendly.

"We keep a list of our customers, their sizes and what items they might be looking for," Brenda said. "If something comes in, we call them."

"We cater to a lot of businesswomen — we have a lot of suits and casual clothing. I think a lot of businesswomen are looking for good clothing to add to their lines without spending a lot of money — things they can wear for a long time."

To make shopping an efficient endeavor, the boutique is sectioned by size and type of apparel.

"So businesswomen can shop quickly on their lunch hours," Carla said.

"I think we have something for everyone, whether it's casual, business attire or party dresses," Brenda added.

The Dressing Room Boutique is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sundays from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Call 680-7831.

Country Companies to pay dividends

Lake County—Country Mutual Insurance Company, the state's largest farm insurer, has announced a $1.4 million dividend on its Crop Hail policies to be paid in March 1993. "This dividend to our policyholders is the result of fewer crop-damaging storms during the 1992 growing season," says Chuck Jones, vice president of Country Mutual. This is the second year in a row, and the fifth time in the last seven years, that Country Mutual has paid dividends on its Crop Hail insurance policies. The dividend represents a 10 percent return on 1992 premiums to policyholders.

ZF Industries moves office to Vernon Hills

ZF Industries December 21 moved into a new 160,000 square foot sales and aftermarket manufacturing facility in The Corporate Woods at 777 Hickory Hill Dr., Vernon Hills.

The move with 275 employees consolidates the operations from three nearby facilities, said Leonard Carmichael, vice president. This also will decrease costs for material handling, manufacturing and office operations, he stated.

Carmichael said the building is on a 14.6 acre site that can provide another 100,000 square feet of expansion space.

ZF Industries is an entity of ZF Friedrichshafen AG, Germany. The American company remanufactures automatic transmissions, steering gears and pumps for passenger cars. ZF also makes transmissions and axles for larger vehicles used in agriculture and construction. It provides marine transmissions for large vessels and race boats such as the Drambue owned by actor Chuck Norris.

Charles Lamphere, president of Van Vlissingen and Co., Lincolnshire, said the expansion of ZF Industries in The Corporate Woods demonstrates one of the important advantages of a large corporate park as it can easily accommodate tenant growth.

The building has a two story brick and glass office of 30,990 square feet that overlooks one of the many ponds in the 340-acre corporate park. The manufacturing and material handling areas designed for maximum efficiency are in an adjoining area of precast concrete featuring extensive use of windows and skylights. Architect is Opus North Corporation.

Lamphere added this building is indicative of the current trend toward build-to-suit structures.

Learn The Facts

In response to some of the criticism of the library board, it's interesting that the people writing don't understand all of the information. If they would attend some of the library board meetings and learn the reasons why the board turned down the park district's offer. One of the problems is with density in Central Park. Only so-many buildings are allowed because of the donation of Central Park land to the park district. Secondly, there's a problem with swimming pools and books. Obviously, the humidity and moisture would ruin a lot of materials being stored in a facility of that sort. That is one of the major areas why the library board turned down the request from the park district.

No Las Vegas In Antioch

I am a new resident of Antioch and I am diametrically opposed to a riverboat casino being brought here. I once went to Las Vegas with my husband because his company had a meeting there. I sat in the lobby of the hotel for about 15 minutes, waiting for my husband. I wasn't there for more than five minutes when I started getting hard looks from passing men. I knew they thought I was soliciting for sex. In our hotel room I found printed material with sordid pictures and telephone numbers. My children and I call Las Vegas sin city. Is that what the people of Antioch want here? For God sakes, let us keep the money, greed and flesh peddlers out of this area.

Gonna Get Worse

From Mundelein. Many thought the Lake County Forest Preserve couldn't get any worse when it was under Andrea Moore. We were wrong. It will get far worse under Colin McRae.

Support Your Teacher

I'm a grandmother of children in Gavin and Fox Lake schools. I am really sick and tired of people saying that teachers are overpaid and don't do enough work. The teachers I know have long days, getting to school before school begins, staying after school is over, preparing lessons at night, getting together those things during the summer that will make the next year better, paying out of pocket for many things they use in the classroom. I want to applaud the teachers of Gavin and Fox Lake schools. I think my grandchildren are getting a very good education from loving, caring teachers. They deserve every penny they are paid.

Get Off My Butt

It seems like driving around Grayslake and the surrounding towns around here you get so many people tailgating. If you drive the speed limit, they try to intimidate you by following six feet off your bumper. The only time you see anybody charged with a violation is after the fact when there is an accident. I think that the local police could put forth a little more effort and tag these yo-yos before they cause accidents.

Are You Crazy?

I'm calling about the riverboat casino that might come to Antioch. I think anybody who would be against it is crazy. Something that's going to create 1,000 permanent jobs, bring tax dollars to our schools and bring people to our area instead of away from it. I think anything like that should be supported to the fullest extent.

We Are Not Rude!

I'd like to respond to "Don't Forget Hainesville." There's a letter which states "All there is in Hainesville is an unsightly motel, a police radar trap and a gas station with rude people." Excuse me, but my mom owns the little corner store on Rte 120. We are not rude. I think people need to spend a little more time in our city and stop branching out into other cities.

Good Job, Sheriff Dept.

I would like to complement the fine work of the Lake County Sheriff's Dept. Our teenage daughter was missing. As a result of the officers' hard work and persistence, she was found and is safe and well. Thank you to the officers. I'm from Mundelein.

Riverboats Are A Good Idea

I think this riverboat proposal is just great. It's too bad that some people can only see the negatives. I think it's going to be great for Fox Lake and Antioch. It's going to make these communities prosperous. I think everyone should get out and support this proposal.

Foreman's Bungle May Cost

I'm reading the editorial by William Schroeder. He alludes that current U.S. Atty. Fred Forman will be eyeing bigger game. If the El Rukens get a mistrial because of Foreman's bungling, it will be difficult for him to even hold on to his law license.

Credit check wise before applying for a mortgage

You feel it's time to start looking for the perfect house, and you have the down payment in the bank. But before you start talking to mortgage lenders, it's a good idea to take a look at your credit record. It will reveal virtually every loan and credit debt you've accumulated. And if you've ever been late with a payment, defaulted on a loan or declared bankruptcy, your lender will know the details.

Few people have a spotless credit history, but taking time now to clean up or explain any negative marks on your record can significantly enhance your chance of getting a mortgage in the future.

In securing a loan today, a borrower's credit history is more important than ever. Your record during the past 12 months is inspected much more closely than that of previous years, but any negative information remains on your record for seven years. The only exception is bankruptcy, which remains for 10 years after the date of filing. Also, lenders may be more interested in the timelines of your mortgage and rent payments than your experience with credit cards and other debts.

Home buyers, especially first timers, should not allow themselves to be caught off guard when applying for a mortgage. If you feel your credit record may need modification, obtain a copy of it at least two months before seeing a lender. If you have been refused credit, federal law states that, upon request, you are entitled to a free copy of the information the credit bureau provided your prospective lender. Otherwise, copies of your credit history are available for a nominal fee from credit reporting companies such as Trans Union Corp., TRW or Equifax Credit Information Services. They can be found in your local Yellow Pages under "Credit Reporting Agencies." You should check reports from more than one agency, as they may differ.

Once you acquire a copy of your credit record, check it for inaccuracies. The reporting agency is required by law to be accurate; however, errors can show up. If you disagree with any information in the report, a formal dispute can be filed with the credit reporting agency. The agency is then required to check the information with the lender or credit grantor. If the credit grantor cannot verify the data, the reporting agency will then change or delete it from your record.

If the "checking process" does not resolve your dispute, you can write or converse directly with the lender or credit grantor to correct inaccuracies, but this can be difficult and time consuming. You can also submit a brief statement of why you believe the information to be incorrect. By law, the reporting agency is required to include this information with your credit report.

A written explanation can also be submitted for any delinquencies caused by good reason (death/serious illness/brief unemployment). If you haven't made a long-standing habit of late payments and a short delinquent payment period can be explained, lenders may not hold it against you.

Mortgage lenders will also look to your credit record to review your monthly bills. These debts, including auto and credit card payments, together with your potential mortgage payment, will be compared to your income and against generally accepted debt-income ratios to determine if you can comfortably afford your monthly obligations.

You can't wave a magic wand to make a negative credit history disappear, so make it a habit to pay all your bills on time. One or two late payments on credit cards probably won't affect your chances for a mortgage, but constant delinquent payments without very good reason can result in loan denial.

Cleaning your credit record of errors, explaining delinquent periods in your past and making an effort to pay all bills in a timely fashion takes time and perseverance, but in the long run can mean easier home purchases.

1992 investment review, 1993 preview

by BOB SCHACHNER
A look back

1992 was dominated by the presidential election. The poor economy, particularly the perception that George Bush could not or would not do much about it, proved to be his undoing.

According to experts, stocks performed fairly well in 1992. As of Dec. 21, 1992, several stock measures, such as the Standard & Poor's 500 (S&P 500) and the Composite of Over-the-counter Stocks, were near new highs. Stocks measured by these two indices increased about 5.7 percent and 13.0 percent, respectively. The Dow Jones Industrial Average hit a record 3413 in June and was up about 4.5 percent through Dec. 21.

Although there appear to be signs of increasing speculation in initial public offerings and over-the-counter stocks, the stock market in 1992 was characterized by low volatility. According to Standard & Poor's Corp., 1992 will go down as the least volatile year in history. The 11.9 percent change in the S&P 500 from its low of 394 on April 8 to a high of 441 on Dec. 18 breaks the previous annual record low of 13.3 percent set in 1959.

Outlook for 1993

Things appear to be looking up for the economy in 1993. Consumer confidence has improved thanks to a collective sigh of relief that the elections are over and a generally positive reaction to Bill Clinton's early presidential appointees and statements about the economy.

The Gross Domestic Product, a frequently quoted number representing the value of all goods and services produced domestically, is expected to post a 2.6 percent to 3.0 percent after-inflation increase in 1993. This would be the highest growth rate since 1988.

There are several reasons for this generally positive view of the economy:

- Retail sales and consumer spending have shown signs of strength.
- Capital spending, especially on machinery and equipment, should be strong and should get a boost from Clinton's proposed investment tax credit. Low interest rates should also help capital spending.

- Growth in the money supply as well as some increase in disposable income should lead to growth in the consumer sector of the economy.

- Inflation appears to be under control, and the Consumer Price Index is expected to increase to between 2.8 percent and 3.0 percent. Commodity prices worldwide, including oil, remain under control. In addition, with only 78.9 percent of the industrial economy's capacity now being used, considerably more production could be achieved without raising prices.

- There are some negative aspects to the experts' forecasts. Private savings remain very low, and household debt, although improving, remains high by virtually all measures.

The trade deficit will probably widen as the U.S. economy strengthens while other economies, such as Europe and Japan, continue to struggle. The unemployment rate is likely to remain around 7 percent because hiring will probably lag any economic upturn.

Investment markets

Interest rates declined modestly in 1992 in contrast to the sharp drop in 1991. The rate on long-term Treasury bonds began the year at about 7.3 percent and is currently just slightly under that rate. Three-month Treasury bills began 1992 at 3.87 percent and are now around 3.23 percent.

Short-term interest rates are expected to increase modestly in the new year. Short-term rates are relatively sensitive to business demands, but the surplus of lending capacity by the banking system should keep any increase fairly small.

Long-term rates, which are more sensitive to inflation expectations, appear to be high in relation to both inflation and short-term rates. As the year progresses, long-term rates should decline as inflation remains under control and bond investors become confident that Bill Clinton's programs will not cause an extraordinary increase in the budget deficit.

Stock market

Earnings per share for the Dow Jones Industrial Average in 1993 are expected to be around $215, a 22.8 percent increase over the $175 expected for 1992. For the S&P 500, 1993 earnings per share is expected to be $25, up 9.7 percent from the 1992 estimate of $22.80.

According to experts, a total return of 10 percent, with stock price growth of about 7 percent and a dividend yield of about 3 percent, appears to be a reasonable expectation, especially in relation to the low level of interest rates.

Make sure your investment plans stay on track in 1993.

IRS ruling may mean larger refund for new homeowners

A new IRS ruling concerning loan origination fees for acquisition of your principle residence can mean a larger refund on tax returns. This ruling is retroactive and affects anyone who purchased a new home after Dec. 31, 1990.

During 1991, many taxpayers bought new homes, and they may be able to amend their tax returns for that year. The IRS now says that loan origination fees can be deducted as points on Schedule A (Rev. Proc. 92-12, July 2, 1992). This means any amounts clearly designated on the Settlement Statement by Veterans Affairs (VA) and Federal Housing Authority (FHA) as loan origination fees, loan discount points or points can be deducted on Schedule A.

Loan origination fees are one percent of the mortgage loan. If the taxpayer receives a mortgage for $80,000, from either VA or FHA, the loan origination fees will be $800. If the taxpayer is in the 15 percent tax bracket, the tax savings would be $120. In order to claim this tax break, the taxpayer will need to file Form 1040X for 1991 and attach a new Schedule A. As a side note, a VA buyer can now pay the points when buying or selling a home and VA interest rates and points are negotiable with the banks.

7500 or in Antioch, 838-1099 will be able to answer any questions or prepare amended returns for anyone who can benefit from this ruling.

Will we be using military force in Somalia as more than a peace measure?

Will Princess Di find true love in New York?

Will Clinton's first year be successful or rough (how, in what ways?)

Psychic says educating is key in new year

The year 1993 will bring many obvious changes, such as a new president in Bill Clinton, newly designed cars, Princess Di coming to live in New York.

But what will develop in those happenings? A local psychic offered some answers.

Melody Joy, a psychic in Lake County, has established good vibes and shared some of her insights.

With racial incidents on the rise in Lake County, Melody predicts educating people will be on the up-rise also. Along with further injustices.

"The biggest effort involving racial tensions will be in programs educating children and attempting to control gang activity," she said. "There will be more exposure of legal injustices, such as wrongfully incarcerated prisoners."

According to many of Melody's predictions, educating will be the key for many occurrences.

Lake County residents have a new "great" president to look forward to, new cars, and a vaccine for fatal illnesses, all which affect our everyday lives in some way, be it economy related, socially related, emotionally or physically related. And developments in educating people will provide answers.

ple will provide answers.

Although Melody predicts the United States may use military force for more than peace measures, she said America will not initiate the violence, that the intention is to educate.

by HEATHER McDONALD

"I feel there will be some violence from opposing forces involving an explosion resulting in casualties around Jan. 19," she said. "The military will then be able to answer with action to root out enemy forces. We should be able to withdraw sometime in June."

"The intention is to train and educate local government forces," she added.

Also a breakthrough in scientific research, a woman such as Madame Marie Curie, according to Melody, will emerge, and "make the breakthrough necessary to develop (a) vaccine" that will have applications to certain kinds of cancer, Melody said.

A vaccine for AIDS will be announced this year as well, although it will be at least two years in the testing, according to Melody. It is a good thing, because according to Melody, women will be increasingly affected by AIDS this year.

Residents will learn through the leader

they chose as president as well.

Melody believes that president-elect Bill Clinton will see rough waters during his first year in office. Many of these troubles will surface because of his wife, Hillary.

"The country will be critical of the role she plays," Melody said. "She could get caught up in a conflict of interest scandal."

However, Melody said Clinton "will initiate a national program around Feb. 1 that will eventually establish him as a great president."

But what about fads, or love?

A new luxury car will come out in April, according to Melody. And Princess Di will not find true love in New York.

She will have a baby, though, Melody said. "She will be seen keeping company with a dark-haired young celebrity, but will not find true love with him," Melody predicted. "Spring will bring true love to Di."

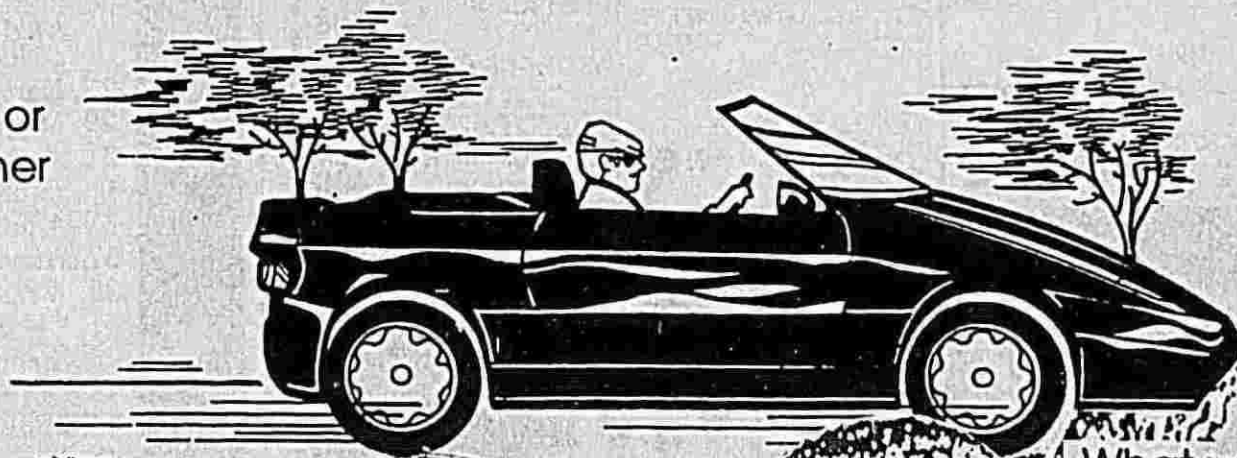

"There will be a divorce and she will have another son."

What more could we ask of the fair princess?

Melody Joy is affiliated with J & M Enterprises in Hoffman Estates and regularly works on WKRS Radio in Waukegan.

Will there be a cure for AIDS, or preventative vaccines for other life-threatening illnesses?

What will be the new car and fashion fads?

Taking time out to enjoy the family

The lull in activity following the busy holiday season provides the perfect setting for family togetherness as the cold of winter keeps families huddled together.

Why not take a few minutes out to turn off the television and turn-on to a good book, reading to the kids or letting them read to you?

The games and puzzles that Santa delivered often need the assistance of mom and dad as youngsters learn the rules and gain the confidence to play.

If nothing else, take 90 minutes out to enjoy every child's favorite holiday video present Disney's "Beauty and the Beast" and discover the enchantment the story holds for children of all ages.

Folk singers present concert with Great Lakes music theme

Folk singers Tom and Chris Kastle will perform a children's concert of folk songs at Waukegan's Stage Two on Sat., Jan. 9. Shows will be at 10 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. for young people and their families. Tickets are $3 each.

The Kastles combine old journals, field recordings and notes for songs and stories of traditional and contemporary Great Lakes music with maritime themes. For over six years the Kastles have served as regular crew aboard traditionally rigged wooden vessels such as the 1888 schooner Charlotte Ann. Their insight provides a special performance highlighted by sensitivity and humor. Using both history and first-hand experience, they tell the story of the people who work and sail the waterways of the Great Lakes.

The Kastle's performance is part of Stage Two's "Super Saturday" Children's Series. For adults, an evening performance will be held at 8 p.m., Jan. 9 as part of Stage Two's Concert Series. Tickets for the evening concert are $5 each.

Stage Two is located at 12 N. Sheridan Road, Waukegan, in the newly renovated University Center. Entrance to the theatre is from the city parking lot off Sheridan Road, between Washington and Madison Streets. Comedy can be hit-or-miss proposition at Second City Aliza Murrieta and Nia Vardalos in "Casino Evil" at Second City Northwest.

Comedy, especially contemporary satire, can be a hit-or-miss proposition.

In Second City Northwest's cleverly titled tenth revue, "Casino Evil," about 50 percent of the fast-paced show is on target. Director Norm Holly's six-member cast goes for the comedic jugular with a number of well-turned skits, such as "Baby" in which Aliza Murrieta and Nia Vardalos contrast the lifestyles of a lawyer caught up in her career with an acquaintance, a young, less polished mother who works in a deli.

"Daddy's Boy" is a witty bit on transvestism, "2 Percent Solution" probes a troubled relationship, "Message" posits an interesting what-if situation involving an answering machine and "Game" is a priceless father-daughter dialog focusing on an absent mother/wife who is in Washington being a U.S.

Senator.

But then there's "King Kong," a takeoff on a parochial grade school classroom from hell. It runs too long and goes too far.

And other shticks, like the one involving Scott Adsit and John Hildreth dressed as clowns and sucking breaths of helium to lift their spirits (and alter their singing voices), are just plain silly.

So is the non-involving "Shower," which mocks health club fanatics.

Many of these ridiculous efforts try to make up for the punch they lack by resorting to scatological humor or common vulgarity—with little success.

"Casino Evil" is an open run in Rolling Meadows. Ticket information is available at 806-1565.

Second City has long served as a breeding ground for satire, with its well-aimed barbs directed at politics, religion and changing family values. The company's latest revue, "Truth, Justice or the American Way," fits the hard-hitting mold.

It shines best when taking potshots at politicians. The brief blackout scene of a Dan Quayle-like character totting a sign reading "Will Work for Foode" is a gem. Another skit, targeting President-elect Clinton, rehashes an old joke but somehow manages to be funny at the same time.

Other bits take on Mall of America, jury duty and the national debt—each with a zany twist.

"R.I.P." is a silly send-off to Superman, and "Friday's Coming" finds parents and their future college student daughter blurting out all sorts of secrets. The cast works through a quick improvisation scene, only with an unusual variation: They perform the requisite off-the-cuff scene while racing against a microwave on-stage set to turn out a bag of popcorn.

Directed by Tom Ginas (with split-second musical direction by Ruby Streak), the polished cast of veterans includes Fran Adams, Paul Dinello, John Rubano, Steven Carell, Michael McCarthy, Ruth Rudnick and Amy Sedaris.

"Trust, Justice" is not without flaw, however. A specific reference to Jeffrey Dahmer in a wickedly humorous piece on a serial killer seems out of place, while another skit relating to Jesus was terribly ill conceived. (Second City's players are expected to be offensive, but this was downright tasteless).

Ticket information is available at (312)337-3992.—by TOM WITOM

Dog sledding in Alaska

by JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT
NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

Seeing the many snowmobiles, brought out by the storm last week, got me thinking about the dog sled trip I took in Alaska about this same time of the year.

Not that there is much of a comparison of a snowmobile to a dog sled. That would be like comparing fast, noisy power boats to the quietness and natural feeling of sailing. (Bet you couldn't guess I have a sailboat.) Anyhow, I got somewhat the same feeling in a dog sled.

Dog sled tours are not limited to the rough, arctic adventurer types. In fact, dog sledding is almost a lazy man's way of travel. All you do is settle down into a comfortable, padded sled, wrap yourself in comfortable blankets and enjoy Alaska's unmatched scenery while your driver and dogs do the rest.

And what scenery it is! Gliding along in almost complete silence, you are surrounded by majestic white mountains, ancient blue glaciers, and wildlife everywhere!

Some tours include the opportunity to strap on snowshoes and do a little more wilderness exploring.

Your seasoned guide will fill you with Alaska's long, and exciting history as well as fresh baked sourdough sandwiches and cinnamon rolls.

If you just want a taste of dog sledding, tours of as little as 30 minutes are available. For the real dog sled experience, though, I'd suggest a two night trip into McKinley Park where you'll see Alaska's most exciting country and spend the night in a real backwoods lodge.

A word to animal lovers. Anyone who knows me is aware of my concern for animals. The dogs used for these teams not only are better fed than the average pet, but in a lot of cases get more attention and love. There are no bits or any other device used to drive the dogs. You will never hear the crack of a whip. The dogs run because they enjoy it!

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You chat up a storm at work, and you impress others with your understanding and savoir faire. Your more playful side emerges just in time for the weekend. You get to celebrate a very successful and rewarding week.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You play not only Ralph Nader this week, but also Telestar and Betty Crocker. Count on it being a roller coaster ride with some real suspense hitting on the full moon. Choose fun company for this lazy weekend.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You are unstoppable, a powerhouse, a force to be dealt with. You can count on being a very busy bee this weekend, going from flower to flower, again leaving your mark on everything and everyone you touch.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You go from the abysmal lows to euphoric highs this work week, though it's questionable if WORK is your only priority. Keep all the hanky panky undercover, if you know what's good for you. You roll into the weekend ready to play and experiment.

LEO (July 23-August 22) You do whatever is necessary to make this week work. The weekend has a last-minute snafu that could drive you wild. Nevertheless, you do finally go off celebrating, being the ever charismatic Lion everyone loves.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Maximize the good vibes while you can this week. They move in and out, and you need flow with them. Just when you think you've got the tiger by the tail, you discover you don't. Be willing to admit defeat and begin again.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Reach for the stars and make the most of upcoming events. The unexpected pops toward the end of the week, and you may need to rethink recent decisions. Realize there are no problems, only solutions. Accept this fact and everything falls into place.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Whatever you focus on, falls into place this week. New information and events force still more creative brainstorming. Know you have the answers. Your mind and spirit are off to fantasyland. A real happy and loving self emerges this weekend.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Others dominate this week. Play docile and don't fight the trends for now. You get your "just" rewards before the week is out, though it may shock you just how much you relish all of this. You feel as if you got every fantasy fulfilled this weekend.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) Plunge into work and get done as much as humanly possible, because, once distractions come your way, you have a hard time settling down. Things come unglued this weekend. It could be your choices or the full moon pushing you across the line.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) You are full of fun and creative wildness this week. Somehow you get a fragment or two of work done, especially if you direct some of your endless energy that way. Though the weekend starts late, it is well worth it.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Consider security matters first and getting "things" more under control before you become more external this week. You are on full power with your mind, body and emotions flowing together. There are some wild and woolly moments as the weekend comes in, but you handle it all.

Renowned pianist Kim to perform in Lake Forest

The Lake Forest Symphony will celebrate Valentine's weekend with pianist Hae Jung Kim, the most recent first prize winner at the Cologne International Piano Competition. Kim will perform the first piano concerto of Ludwig van Beethoven with the Lake Forest Symphony on Feb. 12 and 13. Maestro Paul Anthony McRae and the orchestra will also perform Stravinsky's "Pulcinella Suite" and the fourth symphony of Felix Mendelssohn. These concerts are sponsored by the Martin Design Group.

A first prize winner at the Juilliard Competition in 1989, Kim performed with the Juilliard Orchestra at Lincoln Center under the baton of Roger Nierenburg. In recent years she has won top prizes at the 26th Young Musicians Foundation National Debut Competition in Los Angeles, the Gina Bachauer International Competition in New York, the Young Artists Assn. International Keyboard Competition, the Koussevitsky Competition, the National Art Club Competition in Italy and the Maria Callas International Music Competition in Athens.

Her performance of Beethoven's Third Piano Concerto with the Lausanne Chamber Orchestra in Switzerland was praised by the "Gazette de Lausanne" stating that "the young soloist brightened the stage with her presence, technical abilities, undeniable sense of nuance, and proved to be a beautiful musician."

Three subscription concerts remain for the Lake Forest Symphony's 36th season, as well as a Tiny Tots program for children. Following Kim's appearance with the orchestra, the program and guest artist schedule will include a "Metropolitan Opera Spectacular" featuring rising stars of the Metropolitan Opera on March 12 and 13 and the Season Grand Finale on April 30 and May 1 featuring Mahler's "Symphony No. 1, Titan."

Season subscriptions for the three remaining concerts are available at $65 and $45 per person. Subscriber benefits include reserved seating, pre-concert dining specials and post-concert receptions. All concerts begin at 8 p.m. and are held at Rhoades Auditorium, Chicago Medical School, 3333 N. Green Bay Rd., North Chicago. For ticket information call 295-2135.

Stay Off The Boat

I don't know how much of this nonsense I can handle. We already have the lottery. If you don't like to gamble, don't go on the boat.

Rte. 83 Needs Help!

I'm from Grayslake and I'm calling about the traffic problem that goes through Grayslake. I work in Mundelein. I take Rte. 83 to Mundelein and the traffic is terrible. The roads need to be widened and the lights need to be retimed. There also needs to be a light installed at Rte. 83 and Peterson Road. That's a terrible intersection. They're building more homes in that area and I just don't understand.

Care For Homeless Dogs

Hi. I live in Round Lake Beach and I'm concerned about "He's No Animal Lover" in the Dec. 25 issue. I think that the police departments should start caring about homeless dogs, rather than leaving them out on the streets. Plus, I think the police officer had no right to tell the person to dump off the dog where she found it. If the police want people to respect them, why don't they start doing stuff so they will be respected.

Wrong Plans, Wrong Place

The reason I'm calling is because of a development that Sfire is planning or trying to get into Lake Zurich and I think it's obscene. The Homebase and the huge development he wants to add along Rte 12 will severely impact the wetlands behind it. He's trying to drain a pond right now in order to fill in more property back here. The amount of traffic it will bring to Rte. 12 is obscene. What it's going to do to other businesses in the area, including True Value and Ace, which have been here for a long time, is unnecessary. There is a lot of open development right now. The Sears just announced that it will be leaving which is going to be a big vacancy here in the malls. As we all know, Pharmor is gone. So, what I'm concerned about is that I agree the area should be developed eventually, but it should be developed in a way that will not significantly negatively impact our community. I think there are a lot of other type of developments, including a small restaurant or something, that is not so large in taking up so much of that land. I think that it's a very poor use of the area. He's mentioned a lot about sales tax and what that would bring to the area. What we need is incremental sales tax, not just sales tax that is currently being done by other businesses. It's just too much development, too fast. If you want to talk to me about this, my name is Keith Baumann, 540-8390.

Recipe For Heaven

My recipe for getting to heaven. Do unto others as you would like them to do unto you. When you see somebody who needs a helping hand, give it to them without asking for a reward or a pat on the back. You'll get to heaven in no time. I'm from Gurnee.

Get Involved, People

I'm calling from Round Lake Beach in response to the "Snow Job" from the mayor article. My support of this article would urge residents of the village to become involved with their village. I read an article in this very paper that indicates five village employees will be receiving raises between 7 and 10 percent. The average American worker is lucky to get 3 to 5 percent. If you're one of the men on the crew, you're lucky if you get that. These men are extremely dedicated to their jobs and loyal to the village. I commend them 110 percent.

Careful Who You Ticket

In response to "Nice Plate You Have There," regarding last week's Lipservice and the police chief of Round Lake Park. I would like to suggest something to the person who said the police should enforce the law and ticket people when police see only one license plate on a car. Were they to check, they would find out that in this state, handicapped people only have one plate on their cars — that's all the state issues them. And, getting away from all griping and groaning, why don't you ask your husband to get you a bouquet of flowers; you're such a good looking gal.

How To Get To Heaven

Hi. This is to heaven bound. So many people believe it's what we do here on Earth that gets us to heaven, that we have to earn our way there. Unfortunately, we could never do enough to earn our way. No matter how hard we try, we always sin. We are never worthy of it. That's where God loves us enough to do something about it. Heaven is our gift to us. All we must do is accept it. We do that with a simple and sincere prayer between you and Him. You confess for being a sinner, you thank Him for dying for you and accept Him as your savior. At that moment, you become right with Him and inherit eternal life with Him. I'll see you in heaven. I'm from Mundelein.

It's A Ridiculous Idea

It won't work, park district. It's ridiculous to think that building a new, much needed library next to a community center and pool complex in Grayslake will work. You can save dough by combining a few necessities, but the noise and traffic make the two completely incompatible. Just because a few example towns think false economy, we don't. If it's too noisy for reading and studying, who's going to go outside in the park to tell the kids to quiet down. Let's forget trying to put a quiet, reflective place in the same area where kids are encouraged to let off steam. Also, remember the government created separate taxing bodies so each group would keep it's own identity and control to do a better job. If the library turns down the park district as it should, look for the park board to approach the fire department to build a new fire house in the park cause it's cheaper for them.

Foreman Cover-Up?

Why is there no local news coverage of the El Ruken mess and U.S. Atty. Fred Foreman? It sounds very serious. Are the local papers covering for a local boy?

Mafia With A Big 'M'

I'm calling in response to riverboat gambling near Antioch. I would like everyone to wake up to this. Why do we have to sold on such a thing if it's supposed to be good for the community. All it's going to do is spell out one thing for me: M-A-F-I-A! The long arm of the Mafia is going to be coming in with the gambling, drinking, DUI drivers on the road in our communities. Prostitution will be soon after that. Keep it out of our area. We moved out here to get away from that. Didn't most of us? I wish people would wake up and smell the coffee.

Whimp Of The Year

Antioch calling. Reading the local papers on Jim Fields vacillating on the power line and riverboat gambling, it obviously shows that he qualifies for Whimp of the Year Award.

No Time Like Showtime

I live in Vernon Hills and I feel cheated. Last June, Jones Intercable called to offer Showtime for one year at $6.95, plus Showtime II for free in September. My initial response was to decline, since we had already tried paid channels to our dissatisfaction. The girl was very nice and, in the end, I said I would accept the two channels. My gripe is that in September there was no Showtime II. I called, and they said it would start in October. There was no Showtime II in October. I drove to the local office and was informed that Showtime II has never been scheduled for the area and is not expected to. Has this happened to anyone else? Let me know.

Did His Share Of Work

I must have stepped on one of the good ol' boy's toes. I think I have a little knowledge about the job. As far as men doing all the work, your chief was 29 years with Chicago. He did a lot of shakin' doors and stoppin' cars.

Best Defense Is A Dog

I'm calling from Fox Lake. I was a bit surprised to read about the shortage of police officers in this town. For the longest time, I was led to assume there was a surplus of police in Fox Lake. After the police had been to my home on several occasions to ticket me for my barking dog, I was under the impression that this town was virtually crime free. A barking dog citation on a Saturday night. Imagine my surprise to read about break ins of homes and businesses in the area. Maybe it's a good thing my dog barks; perhaps that's the only way to deter would-be burglars in this town.

Antique silver coming back to American tables

That antique silverware you have tucked away in a special case in the third drawer of the dresser can do more than just sit there. Elegant antique silverware is making a comeback on the dining rooms of America.

Formal, at-home entertaining is on the comeback in households across America, as more men and women alike are pampering themselves with intimate breakfasts for two or preparing elaborate dinners for personal friends.

And, according to Gourmet Magazine, "a beautifully appointed table is as important today as the taste of the food."

Traditional elegance is back in style. Individuals are dressing up their tables as lavishly as they dress themselves and using that well-preserved silverware, rather than hiding it.

The many special qualities of antique silver are what have made it a treasured possession throughout the ages. Silver combines superb design heritage, lustrous beauty, durability and heirloom quality.

One reason for the comeback is that design patterns are not subject to extreme fads and radical fashion changes.

If you have that heirloom set and are not sure what to do with it, here's a few answers.

Sterling silver, "the real thing," will never wear out or lose its authentic charm. And, contrary to popular belief, the more silver is used, the less it will tarnish.

Just was right after use in hot, soapy water, rinse with a clean, hot water and dry with a soft cloth. Then polish once or twice a year to keep that shiny glow.

If sterling is not used daily, it should be stored air-tight in a silver chest or storage cloth rolls.

Whether you are planning an intimate breakfast for two or a formal dinner for 20 here are some tips to help make any table look sensational when using that famed antique silverware.

• Think of table settings and arrangements as combinations of colors, textures and shapes. Use your favorite colors in fine foods, table settings and objects for arrangements.

• Creative napkin folding is an easy way to liven table settings.

• The crowning glory of any table is the centerpiece. Despite its name, a centerpiece can be off center — to the left, right or running down the middle of the table.

• Whatever the special occasion, set the table with that rejuvenated fine silver. Not only will your table look sensational, but frequent use of sterling is the best way to keep it bright and shining. It also enhances the finish, adding a soft patina to the silver.

Breakfast for two is wonderfully intimate and romantic and having a guest in your home is always a special event. So, add that extra touch of elegance to your table with antique sterling silver accessories.

Knitting trendy once again

Everyone's knitting again. Not since the 1930's have so many knit in peacetime.

Housewives toss off a few rows during "Wheel of Fortune" or "The Oprah Winfrey Show." Nike-shod career women slump into subway seats and speedily extricate yarn and needles from bulging briefcases.

Car-pooling mothers add inches as teens

dawdle during pick-up and delivery.

Grandmothers selling real-estate click while awaiting clients.

Whatever the motivation for this return to knitting, the old fear that "idle hands are the devil's workshop," or the desire to "make something from nothing," to restore a simpler past, to create a garment distinctly one's own, to economize, etc. is a craft that has inspired generations before them.

In America, where clothing the family was consigned primarily to women's domestic sphere, knitting proficiency was a necessary skill.

To most, knitting is a feminine occupation, and needlework magazines and books capitalized on it. Knitting, over the ages, has been good for morale, on both fronts, home and battle. Knitters, especially young girls, stuffed promising messages into toes and fingers, and delirious were those receiving saucy variations of Roses are red, violets are blue....

So, what's new in knitting, not much — but everyone is certainly doing it.

Browne's mark spotless despite weight class change

by BRENT KILLACKY
Lakeland Newspapers

Undefeated Mundelein wrestler Eric Browne was unhappily surprised when he weighed in at the New Year's Eve Wrestling Invitational at Carmel High School. He was one-half pound overweight.

Browne would have to move up past the 130-pound class because it was already filled, all the way up to the 135-pound weight class, 10 pounds above his usual weight of 125.

"I expected to get killed," the 125 and one-half pound senior said. "Some of these guys looked kind of big, but I surprised myself."

Browne (19-0) would remain undefeated and become the tournament champion of the 135-pound weight class. He defeated Harvard's Tim McConnell 7-4 to capture the championship.

Browne was not the only wrestler to remain undefeated after the tournament. Carmel's Derrick Noble (13-0) wrestled aggressively to take the 119-pound weight class by storm.

"Noble was wrestling like a machine. We told him to rev all the engines and put the afterburners on and that's what he did," Carmel Coach Joe Scordino said.

But Noble, a senior, described his day as "average".

"I just went out and tried to wrestle like I did when I was younger. I wasn't afraid of anybody when I wrestled.

Noble's performance seemed anything but average. He advanced to the semi-finals on a bye where he defeated Highland Park's Julian Farbstein by a technical fall (20-3) in 1:50. In the finals, he pinned Harvard's Mike Jones in 1:03.

"If he wrestles like that all year, he's going to be unbelievable. And he is capable of doing that every match."

Defending Class A state champ Harvard won the meet with 183 points, far outdistancing second-place Weber (133). Grayslake had 105 points for third, Mundelein had 89 and Carmel 86th, rounding out the top five. The sixth, seventh and eighth place finishes were: Highland Park (68); Deerfield (62) and Libertyville (35), respectively.

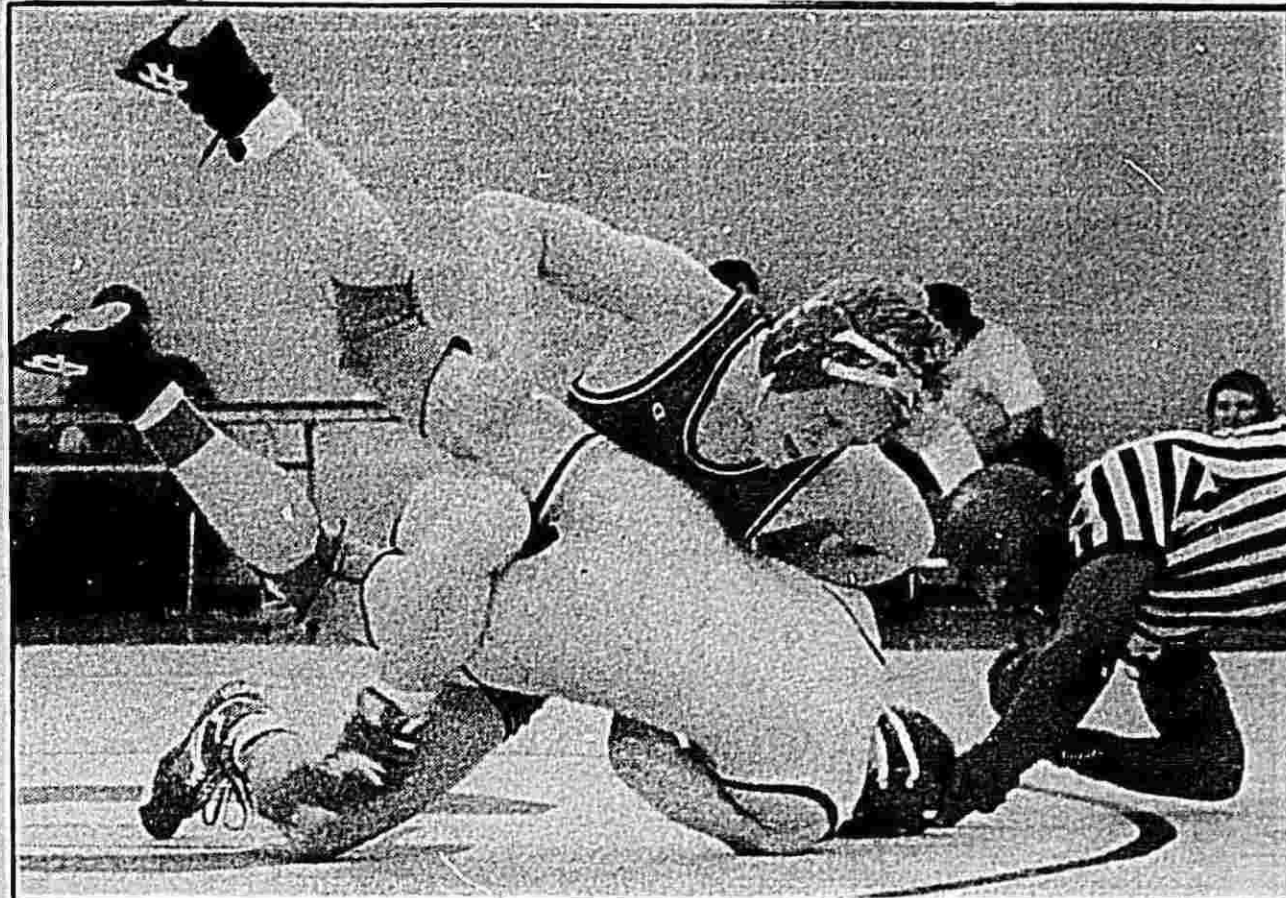

"We came as a bunch of individuals to do well and I'm real pleased," Grayslake Coach Jon Peterson said. "It was a good tournament for us."

Grayslake had three wrestlers place first,

one second and two third.

Peterson said the team was short three weight classes because of various illnesses and injuries. To fill the gaps, Peterson moved up some freshmen and sophomores.

Mundelein's Eric Browne closes in on another win at Carmel wrestling invitational. Browne won 135-pound weight class, after missing his usual 125-pound class by a half-pound. — Photo by Gene Gabry.

Patriots look to put lessons learned at tourney to use

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

The time of New Years is one to rest

Scouting report

North Chicago at Stevenson

Date: Friday, Jan. 8

Game time: 7:30 p.m.

Team records: North Chicago 3-2 North Suburban Conference, 6-6 overall; Stevenson 4-0, 9-2.

Key players: Stevenson's Jason Justus and Kenyon Catchings; North Chicago's David Gardener and Cyrus Johnson.

Keys to game: Stevenson, led by 6-7 Justus, would seem to have the edge in height. The Pats are coming off a second-place at Elgin, where Justus was given all-tourney honors. North Chicago won the consolation title at Wheeling and is county's hottest team with five-game winning streak.

Prediction (7-3 overall before Christmas tourneys): Stevenson by five.

Warren at Mundelein

Date: Friday, Jan. 8

Game time: 7:30 p.m.

Team records: Warren 1-3, 4-6, Mundelein 2-3, 6-6.

Key players: Mundelein's Thad Miller and Kyle Kessel. Warren's Justin Hanlin and Ryan Taylor.

Keys to game: Mundelein would appear to be too quick for a Warren team looking hard for a third scorer. Mundelein could have Carmel transfer Brian McMahon.

Prediction: Mundelein by eight.

Johnsburg at Grant

Date: Friday, Jan. 8

Game time: 7 p.m.

Team records as week began: Grant 4-1, 8-5; Johnsburg 0-5, 3-8.

Key players: Johnsburg's Rob Fehling, Todd Freund; Grant's Tim Culotta, Mike Ingram.

Keys to game: Johnsburg Coach Jeff Lewiston is hoping the fun is back after a win over Marian Central at the Marengo tournament. The Skyhawks are up against a Grant team looking to avenge four losses at Christmas tourney which saw the record dive from 8-1 to 8-5.

Prediction: Grant wins battle of Fox Lake, round II, by 10.

and gears up for the challenges of the year that beckon and Stevenson High School boy's basketball team did both as the Patriots prepared to defend their North Suburban Conference title.

Stevenson hosts North Chicago, Jan. 8. The Warhawks won the consolation title at Wheeling. Stevenson is then at Antioch Jan. 9. Both games are 7:30 p.m. starts.

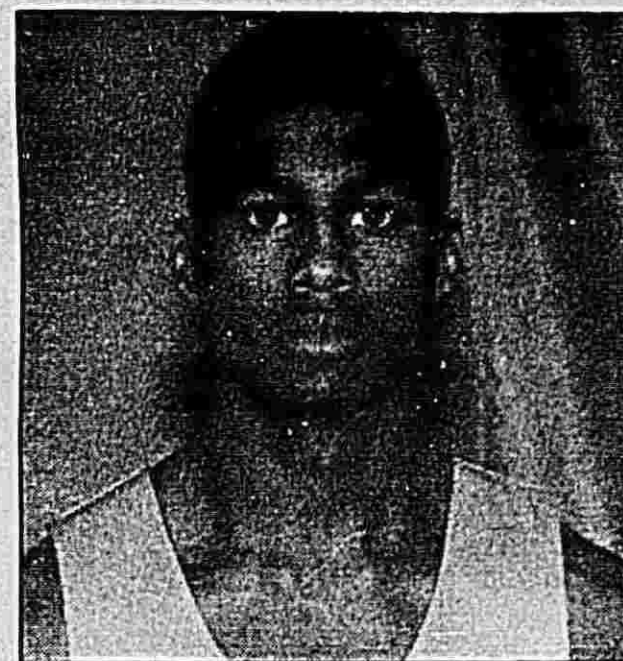

The Pats' injury problems and lack of consistency came to the forefront as a bigger, faster Gordon Tech team turned a close game into a rout with a 23-6 third quarter run in the title game of the Elgin Christmas Classic. The Pats (9-2) fell 68-54, after beating Elgin by 15 in the semifinals.

"We came out with a lot of fire, but Mark Finn was coming back off an ankle injury and Ryan Scully had missed eight days of practice due to injury and Kenyon Catchings was fighting the flu. That we were able to win nine games during that is a tribute to the team," Stevenson Coach Ken Johnson said. "We were pumped to play, but we were flat at the same time."

Jason Justus once again was the factor that held the Pats together, scoring 20 in the title game and being named all-tourney. Catchings, a 6-3 junior, had 17 and was also honored.

"Justus and Catchings, night in and night out, have been the glue keeping this thing together," Johnson said.

The 3-1 tournament topped the expectations of Johnson, who was returning to his former coaching site. "I thought we'd go 1-3," he said.

Kenyon Catchings

"We were a jumble of nerves going in, but we're proud of the kids," Johnson said.

Justus has been the Pats man in the middle this year as the 6-7, 180 pounder has changed his role from last year's Elite Eight squad.

"I've actually decreased my shooting range. Last year I used to go for three because we had Eric Roth down low," Justus said.

While the Rams were fast, and led by 18 points from Dwayne Austin, the team certainly was not the first quick team the Pats have seen. "Mundelein was a real quick team that gave us a tough game," Justus said.

"We weren't psyched up, ready to go. Maybe we put too much pressure on ourselves," Justus said.

The Pats did indeed start strong, making five of their first seven shots from the field. The Rams kept pace, making seven out of their first 10, as Stevenson could only muster two-point leads.

Gordon Tech led by two points, 20-18, after one and increased it to seven as Stevenson's shooting fell off in the second quarter.

A Justus hoop brought the Pats to within five points in the opening minute of the second half, but the squad would score only four more points in the next seven minutes. The Gordon Tech lead reached 60-36 after three.

"It reminded me of the Highland Park game," Johnson said, referring to a season-opening defeat.

Still, the tournament was a success for the team from Lincolnshire.

"We came here to face some stiff competition," Johnson said.

Lady Lancers are poised to defend crown

Moraine Valley women's basketball team seemed to be as elusive as trying to find a dry stretch of roadway in Palos Hills Saturday.

The College of Lake County Lady Lancers fell to the host Marauders, who pulled out a 59-57 win. The Lancers (8-5) challenged the winners of nine of 10 games all the way, gaining ties but never quite taking control.

"Overall I am pleased with our position for the conference season," CLC Coach Don Zeman said.

The Lancers host McHenry Jan. 12 at 5 p.m. after hosting Waubesa Jan. 7. CLC is looking to defend the conference title it won going unbeaten last year.

One of the reasons Zeman is optimistic is Liz Johnson. Johnson topped both her points (17) and rebound total (19) as the 5-9 sophomore from Antioch took over the middle.

"Liz would say she had a bad game offensively, but she made up for that with rebounds," Zeman said.

Jenny Hagen, despite slowed by fouls and illness, had 10 points.

CLC overcame a sloppy first half with 12 turnovers and took a three-point lead at 39-36 on an outside jumper by Heather Ford. Moraine, led by Denise Loverde (22 points) quickly regained the lead.

CLC gained its final tie at 57-57 on a putback by Julie Frankowski with :35 left. Janet Hauibenreiser (13 points), MV's go-to person in the latter stages of the second half, scored the go-ahead basket with 11 seconds left.

CLC had a chance as Danette Deal missed a free throw. Hagen tried a half-court heave, but could not get off a shot before the final buzzer.

"They outplayed us. We were missing shots which normally go in eight of 10 times. This was one of the two other times," Zeman said.

Revived Carmel looks to make some noise in league

Playing four games was Carmel's goal going into the Kankakee Christmas tournament.

A 2-2 record may not have been the result the Corsairs wanted, but Carmel Coach Scott Rosberg believes enough good came out of the effort to bode well for the remainder of the East Suburban Catholic Conference season.

"I was pleased with the overall effort. We always set a goal of playing four games and we did that against some good competition," Rosberg said.

The Corsairs (3-9) won their second game of the tourney with a 79-57 rout of Fenger behind 24 points from Jermaine

Williams. Williams, though, sprained an ankle in the semifinal round and Curt Salata was also injured, and Carmel dropped a 78-64 decision to the host school and 74-55 loss to Chicago Carver.

Carmel gets back into the swing of things ESCC style with a home game Jan. 8 against St. Patrick. St. Patrick is just ahead of Carmel in the league standings at 1-3.

"We put some good things together against Fenger. We played half-court defense well and we played the game the way it should be played," Rosberg said.

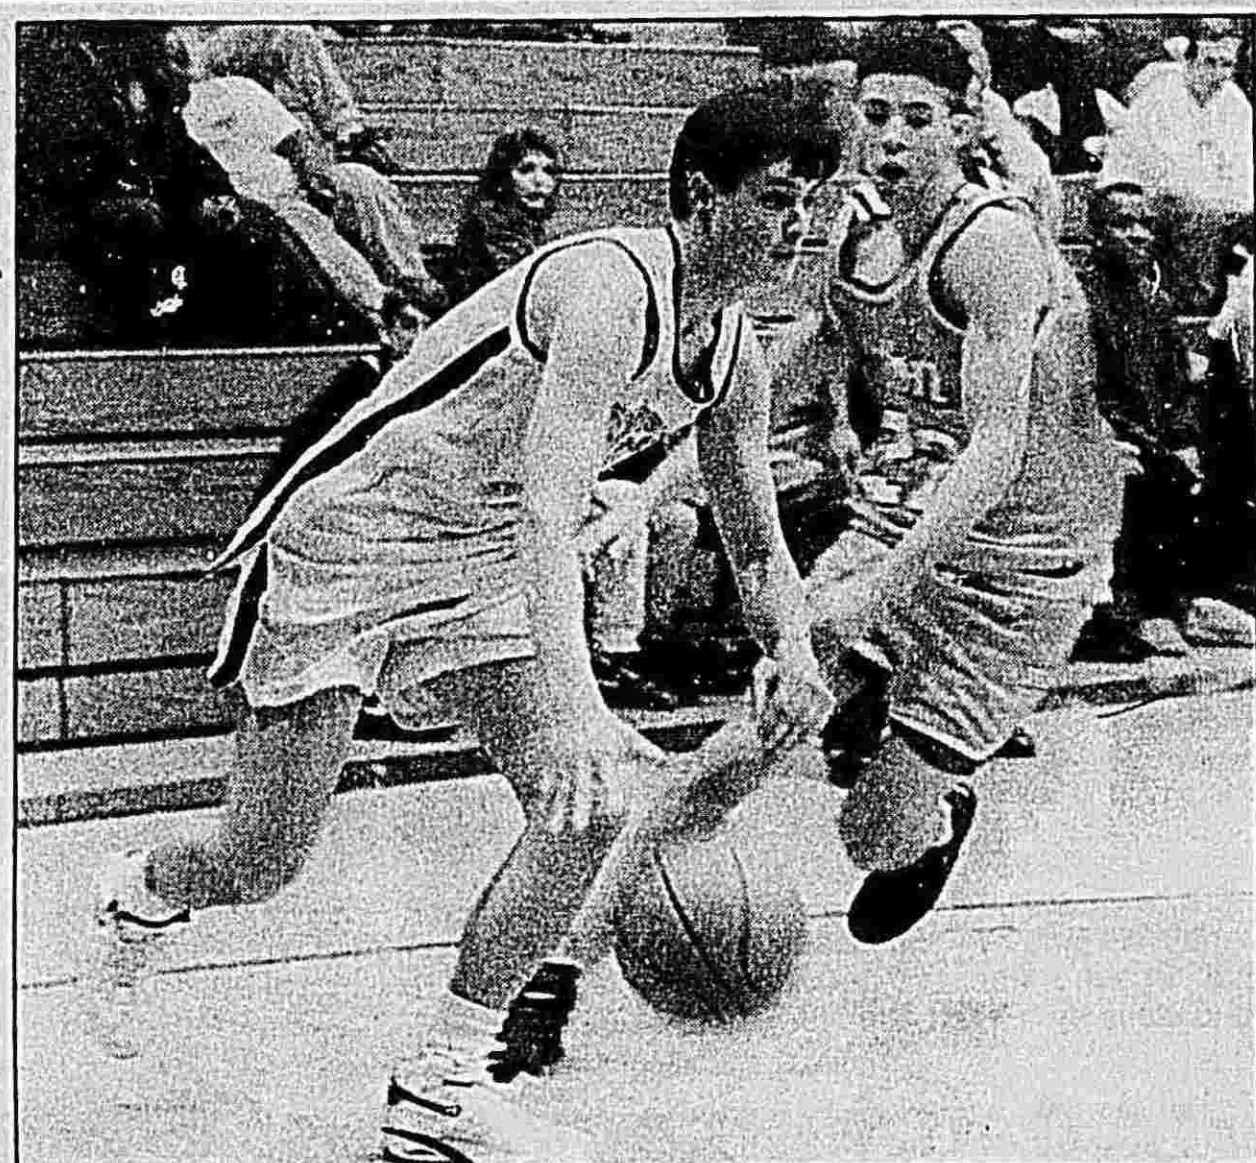

Among those stepping forward on the fourth-place tourney team was Brian Buckingham. Buckingham, a 6-1 junior swingman, scored 14 points to lead Carmel against Carver. Dan Stasiek, who had 13 points against Kankakee, also played well.

"We've had different people step up and that is what I have been looking for in December," Rosberg said.

Jermaine Williams

Driving past

Stevenson's Jeff Turnbull gets past Gordon Tech's Eddie Santiago in championship game of Elgin Christmas tournament. Stevenson fell 68-54, settling for second place. Patriots resume North Suburban Conference play by hosting North Chicago Jan. 8.

Carmel girls prepare for GCAC contests

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Dede Hertel's improvement in free-throw shooting paid off big just at the right time for the Carmel girls basketball team.

"She is a 52 percent free-throw shooter this year, which is about a 10 percent increase from last year," Carmel Coach Scott Green said.

Hertel's free throw with five seconds left was the deciding factor as the Corsairs downed Argo 46-45 at the St. Viator Christmas tournament.

Hertel, a 5-5 senior forward, finished with seven points in the game. Natalie Gambit, who made the all-tournament team led the Carmel effort with 12 points. Stevenson (13-3) won the tourney with a 4-0 record.

"Overall, I was pretty pleased with the tournament. We came back after a tough loss to Waukegan (after losing a 19-point lead) and almost beat Regina (a 67-59 overtime loss). We played a good half against Stevenson. We played only three bad quarters the whole tournament," Green said.

Carmel begins a stretch of five home games, against Jan. 7 Mt. Assisi. Jan. 14 CHS battles Palatine, Jan. 21 Good Counsel and Jan. 23 Glenbrook South. Stevenson hosts Lake Forest in a 2:30 p.m. North Suburban Conference tilt Jan. 9.

Against Stevenson, the Corsairs (7-6) started hot, making nine of 13 shots from the field in the first quarter, but gaining only an 18-16 lead.

Stevenson led by three at half-time, but totally dominated the third quarter, as the Corsairs committed six turnovers and trailed by nine going into the fourth.

Danielle Mall led a balanced Stevenson attack with 12 points. Frosh Tricia DeClark and senior Tina Stops had 10 each.

"I thought we played pretty hard in the first half but we did not do a lot of little things in the second half. We started to stop rebounding," Green said. "Lack of experience against a press hurt, too," Green said.

The play of frosh Katie Coleman (six points) earned kudos from Stevenson Coach Frank Mattucci. "She is learning to play more under control. She is learning to play more poised. She will be a very good player and she is a pleasure to coach."

On DeClark: "She is playing real well right now," he said.

The Pats were worried about point differential compared to Regina, but Waukegan took care of that with a 46-45 upset. The Pats downed St. Viator 47-37 in the finale, as Mall had 16 points and Tauja Catchings contributed 10. An 18-10 fourth quarter run by the Pats settled that one.

Obstacles to intimacy with self and others

January 20, 1993 7-8 p.m.

Presented by:

Kenneth Isaacs, Ph.D.

Staff Psychologist

Saint Therese Medical Center

Millions of us live with an incomplete capacity for experiencing life. This sort of trouble is usually undramatic, with the pain unnoticed by others, and may manifest quietly in any of several ways:

- We may have an unpleasant sense of distance from others - although we crave closeness.
- We occasionally experience a general sense of alienation from self or world - there is a sense of strangeness or weirdness to our experience.
- We have doubts and are indecisive about minor or major matters - we sometimes can't decide what to eat or wear, or choose a career or whom to marry.
- Our lives seem aimless, empty, or colorless.
- Vitality is missing in our experiencing of daily life. We have little zest for anything we do.

This program is an opportunity to obtain some valuable information about achieving a more fulfilling life.

Dr. Isaacs is a staff psychologist with Saint Therese Medical Center, and is in private practice in Evanston.

'Devils seek third scorer as key league tests loom

Warren Twp. High School boys basketball coach Darrel Bader knows the importance of the next four games.

"The next four conference games will determine if we belong in the upper division or not," Bader said.

Warren gave its players four days off after a 1-2 Pontiac Christmas tourney. The two losses were by a combined four points as Warren dropped to 4-6 overall.

The Blue Devils' critical stretch begins at Mundelein Jan. 8, followed by a home game with Libertyville Jan. 9. Zion-Benton and Fenton combine for away-home North Suburban Conference tests the next weekend.

Justin Hanlin and Ryan Taylor continue to be the team's top gunners. Hanlin, a 6-1 senior forward, is averaging 17.5 points a game while Taylor, a 5-11 senior guard, is at 12.9 points a game.

"We are still looking for a third scorer. No one has stepped up and said, 'play me,'" Bader said.

Mundelein is coming into the NSC game with a 6-6 mark after finishing second at the Jacobs tourney. The Mustangs are led by junior guard Kyle Kessel, Matt Brua, Thad Miller and Gerald Coleman.

"They are all in the top 25 in the county scoring. They are very potent offensively. Libertyville has Matt Heldman and Jamie Carruthers who have been very consistent," Bader said.

Ryan Taylor

Warren started the Pontiac tourney with a close 39-36 loss to Chicago DeLaSalle. Taylor had 14 and Hanlin 10 in the game. Warren tried to rally with a 15-7 run in the fourth quarter but came up shy.

Warren outshot DeLaSalle 39 to 35 percent, but the winners had more two point field goals, 17 to 11.

The win of the tourney was a 50-45 verdict over Niles West. Hanlin had 20 points and seven rebounds to lead Warren, Taylor nine points.

Warren had a 21-9 lead in free throws.

The tourney nightcap proved to be the second close loss, a 45-44 decision to Alton. Taylor took home scoring honors with 19 points, Hanlin had 12.

Warren led by six after three quarters, but the game turned into a finger nail-biter. Tim Marabella's tip in trimmed an Alton led to one point and the Blue Devils had a chance to tie, but the final inbounds pass was stolen.

Panther wrestlers ready to improve on 7-1 mark

Round Lake's wrestlers will try to build on their 7-1 dual-meet record when they take on four teams over the weekend.

The Panthers will host Northwest Suburban Conference rival Marian Central in a dual meet Friday. On Saturday, Round

Lake will host five teams — Warren, Libertyville, Mundelein, Crystal Lake Central and Buffalo Grove. Each squad will compete in duals against three other teams.

In action before and during the holiday break, the Panthers nipped defending Class A state champ Harvard in a dual meet and returned to finish third in Harvard's 16-team invitation, which was won by Belvidere.

Round Lake coach Bob Curran is still evaluating this year's Panthers as they seek the school's fourth straight NWSC title. Nagging injuries have hampered five or six of the Panthers.

"It's kind of tough right now — I'm sort of waiting to see what happens this weekend," Curran said. "I think the jury is still out. We've had some different people in the lineup. I'm still trying to see who my team is.

"We've done all right, but there's still a lot of season left."

Senior Justin Zdeb, a two-time state-meet qualifier, remains as the only undefeated Panther. An injury has limited him to just six matches.

Junior Mike Kukla and senior Rusty Nofsinger are 19-2 and 18-2, respectively. Kukla qualified for state last year, while Nofsinger was a regional champ.

Saturday's meet will begin at 9 a.m.

Warren girls knew early of Elfering's shooting skills

She was a regular in the stands at Warren Twp. High School when Joel Elfering was setting assists records.

Then each summer, Marlene Elfering would have her chance to be the standout of the family on the basketball camp as she impressed other campers at WTHS coach Bruce Campbell's sessions.

"We knew even back then, when she was in the sixth-grade that she would be a good shooter. Now she is a complete player," Campbell said.

Elfering is averaging 18 points and eight rebounds a game as the Blue Devils (11-1) face key stretches in the North Suburban Conference season. Warren hosted Libertyville Jan. 7 before traveling to Zion-Benton Jan. 9 for a 2:30 p.m. game.

"We had a lot of shooting drills in the camps," Elfering recalled.

All of the starting five graduated off last year's 23-4 Warren team and the squad did not exactly sizzle the nets in the summer leagues, but a well-rounded team effort has earned the Blue Devils respect.

"It's nice to know that the bench can come in and do the job, even in close games," Elfering said.

"More than in any other year I have been here, all 10 players contribute," Campbell said.

Elfering topped her scoring average twice at the Maine East tournament. She had 20 points in a 42-35 win over Prospect, then 35 in the title clinching 63-55 win over Josephinum. Two dozen of those points came in the second half as Warren rallied from a six-point half-time deficit.

Elfering knew one area of her game which needed work. "I needed work on defense, but I'm much better at it now," she said.

Rams girls net victory

Grayslake combined several elements in a 59-42 win over Marian Central in Northwest Suburban Conference girls basketball action. The win bettered the Rams mark to 3-5 in the NWSC, 4-10 overall.

"We maintained the tempo the entire game. We got the fastbreak going and we were able to do that because we did a great job down low on the blocks," Grayslake Coach Brad Larson said.

Jennie Dunbar had 19 points, Casey Sanford 18 and Allison Waldenstrom 17, accounting for all but four Rams points.

Follow bouncing ball

College of Lake County's Alden Bell strives to keep the ball inbounds against Moraine Valley. The Maureders; Vince Weaver looks on. CLC lost 97-85 overtime decision. Bell suffered a sprained ankle and is expected to be missed for some Skyway Conference games. CLC hosts McHenry Jan. 12.

Peterson achieves her spot on all-academic contingent

Elmhurst College women's tennis player Marilyn Peterson, a graduate of Lake Zurich High School, and football player Eric Fuglsang were named to the College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin (CCIW) All Academic team honoring 1992 fall student-athletes.

"We are very proud to have student-athletes like Eric and Marilyn at Elmhurst. They are truly representative of the type of quality people we have here. They typify the true Division III student-athlete who can excel in academics and athletics," Chris Ragsdale, Elmhurst's athletic director, said.

Fuglsang is a Rolling Meadows High grad. All-academic team honorees are required to have a grade-point average of 3.2 or better on a 4.0 scale.

Peterson led the Bluejay women's tennis team this fall (9-5 overall, 3-4 in the CCIW) with records of 13-6 at No. 2 singles and 13-5 at No. 1 doubles, going 8-3 with senior Heidi Hegglin and 5-2 with senior Jill LaFoy.

At this fall's CCIW championships, she finished fourth at No. 2 singles and teamed with Hegglin to place third at No. 1 doubles.

A three-year Bluejay letterwinner, Peterson played No. 6 singles as a freshman and No. 3 singles as a sophomore. She transferred to Northern Illinois University in the fall of 1991, but returned to Elmhurst at mid-year break.

"Marilyn was a real leader on our team. Having her really helped turn the team around after we struggled last year (2-10)," tennis coach Sue Elliott said.

Lancers' Huntington all set for familiar basketball role

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

For 13 games, Dave Huntington was playing an unaccustomed position, banging his six-foot, five more familiar role.

"With Jeff Winckler with us in the post, I will be able to move back outside," Huntington said.

Huntington scored nine points in a 97-85 overtime loss to Moraine Valley. He ignited the most critical play of the day, one which sent the game into extra minutes.

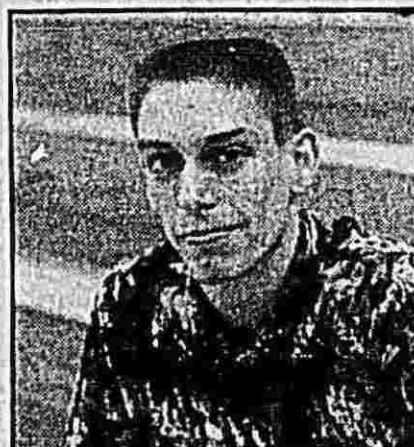

"I knew we had to get the rebound so I threw it toward Eddie's side," Huntington said.

White, who led CLC with 33 points, scored on the Lancers third shot for a 74-74 tie.

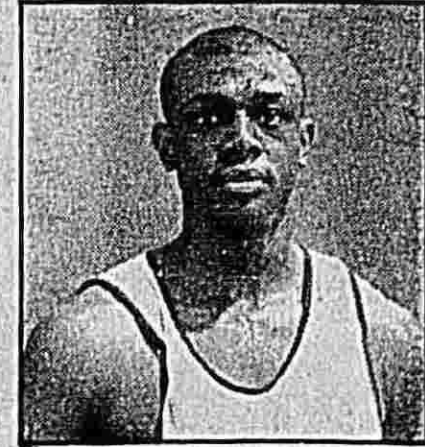

But the Lancers were hurt by fouls and had nothing left for OT. CLC (8-6) had White, Huntington, Gilmore and Winckler foul out. Chris Ellis was doing much of the damage for the home team, scoring 38 points.

The Lancers were preparing for the Jan. 7 Skyway Conference opener against

Dave Huntington

inch but slender (165) pound frame right up there with the big boys.

But as the Skyway Conference season begins, Huntington could see a Waubensee and a Jan. 12 home game against McHenry shorthanded. Guard Alden Bell hurt an ankle less than three minutes into the game.

Katz wins second tourney crown for Pats grapplers

Stevenson's Ryan Katz won his second straight tournament title as the Patriots scored 122 points in a wrestling meet at Cary-Grove.

Katz won four matches at 103 pounds, increasing his record to 18-3.

The Patriots' 122 point total was good enough for fourth of six teams in a meet won by the host Trojans with 171 points. Belvidere was next with 152 and Johnsbury third at 139. Crystal Lake Central and Rockford Boylan finished behind Stevenson.

Stevenson gets back into dual meet action at Warren Jan. 8 at 6 p.m.

Three Patriots finished second. Paul Yu earned a second-place finish for the Pats with a 2-2 record at 125 pounds, improving to 14-9. Brett Pyka was second at 140, winning three of four matches and is 13-5. Dean Bielana was second at 160 pounds and is 14-3.

Third place finishes were earned by Mike Kurtzman at 145, evening his mark at 10-10. Jon Olfnonia was third at 152, splitting four matches for a 5-12 record.

Grayslake

3.38 acres coming to Grayslake

Lake County Farm Bureau's land abutting Center St. is becoming part of Grayslake. The concept won a favorable recommendation from the Zoning Board of Appeals, which forwarded the plan on to the plats and subs committee of the village board. The committee is expected to consider the proposal Jan. 19.

Dick Raftis, Farm Bureau manager, said the land is 3.38 acres. It borders Rte. 45 and Center St. and would be zoned general business.

"My main concerns are survey discrepancies and drainage for our farm. The gas station (Shell) is dumping water on our property and if this land develops, it would increase the amount of water on our property," Eleanor Beemsterboer said.

The land was zoned urban in Lake County, which would have allowed for intensive commercial use, Raftis said. No specific plans for commercial development are on the drawing boards.

FOP donates food, clothing

Bringing the holiday spirit to those less fortunate, the Lake County Sheriff's Fraternal Order of Police Lodge 66 distributed Christmas baskets to needy families throughout Lake County.

The program, under the direction of Deputy Sheriff Dwayne Davis, has been a major project for 12 years. Sponsors for the 1992 Christmas season were Whitmore's Towing Service in Waukegan, Rogers Towing in Zion, National Plumbing & Supply in Libertyville and Chicago, and Taylor Shavings Co. in Wadsworth.

"This was the season for caring and the time for sharing. To ease the burden placed on so many families and bring a smile to a child's face on Christmas Day creates a feeling in your heart that can never be replaced," said Undersheriff Willie Smith.

More than 160 baskets containing food, clothing and gifts were distributed.

Recycling program nets 16 tons during phone directory drive

Results are in from the pilot directory recycling collection program involving the communities of Libertyville, Mundelein, Waukegan and Zion.

The program's 31,447 pounds of outdated directories saved 953 cubic feet of landfill space. Residents were alerted to the program through Lakeland Newspapers and an insert delivered with the new Pages Plus directories.

Individual community results are: Libertyville, 4,389 pounds; Waukegan, 8,756 pounds; Mundelein, 18,000 pounds; Zion, 302 pounds.

Sponsors of the program were delighted with the results and said that "community involvement is the key ingredient of any collection program. We thank the citizens who participated for making their program truly successful," said Ron Kladder, recycling coordinator for DonTech.

The program was coordinated by the villages of Vernon Hills and Mundelein, the cities of Waukegan and Zion, Libertyville Twp. Recycling Committee, Waukegan Citizens for Recycling, The Lambs, Alan Josephson Co., Illinois Bell and directory publisher DonTech.

Chain drawdown raises fears of spring flooding

by JOSEPH SOULAK
Lakeland Newspapers

Water levels of the Chain O' Lakes are higher than they should be at this time of the year. Instead of fall and winter levels, the Fox Lake area waters are at normally high summer levels.

This could lead to serious pier, marina, boathouse and shore erosion caused by the ice. For the spring it raises the possibility of potential flooding.

Much of that depends upon Mother Nature.

All of this is because the expected fall drawdown did not happen.

Instead of the 18 inches the Army Corps of Engineers hoped to drop the Chain O' Lakes, the level is 8 to 10 inches below its summer, recreational use high. Summer is when the Chain is at its highest for boat and recreational use.

Frank Novak, lockmaster at the McHenry Dam, has a logical explanation for what is happening today.

"It's been wet from late summer into fall," he said. "Tributaries like the Fox River and Nippersink Creek that feed the Chain have been full." As much as Novak is allowed to open the dam, more water pours in behind it.

Added to this was an early November order to maintain a summer level on the Chain in advance of a tour by the Army Corps of Engineers. With this completed the drawdown began. The process is expected to take four to six weeks.

But a mid-December freeze caused an ice jam down stream in Kane County. Acting on daily reports from the McHenry dam, the drawdown slowed. But not before there was Christmas eve flooding of a Kane County subdivision. Flood waters receded over the Yule weekend.

The drawdown has since resumed, but not at the hurried fall pace when downstream tributaries can normally accept all water released through the dam.

Novak said flow at the dam is determined by his supervisors in Springfield. Daily flow charts from the dam are compared with downstream water levels to prevent flooding. Flows this year have been higher than average.

Since Dec. 29 the McHenry dam has been open more than the usual winter norm. Still, water levels are not dropping at a noticeable rate. That is because more water is pouring into the Chain than going over the McHenry dam, some of it on top of the four inches of ice that formed in mid December.

Cold weather will help, Novak said. "This will freeze everything, keep moisture on the ground and out of the watershed. But it could only prolong the agony until spring. The moisture has to run off eventually." Unless the Chain can handle that water, it could mean flooding.

Novak said the McHenry dam has never been completely closed this year. Likewise, he said the dam is rarely opened.

Looking ahead to next spring, Novak expressed concern. "There's a lot of moisture on the ground and in it that will have to go someplace." He hopes it isn't in Kane County or, closer to home, Fox Lake.

PET PARADE

Your dog does not have to look old to be old

If your dog meets any of the following criteria, he or she may have the special needs of a senior dog:

• is at least eight years old

• takes longer and more frequent naps

• gets tired easily while taking a walk

• drinks more water than usual

• shows graying around the muzzle

• the pupils of the eyes become opaque.

Older individuals, people or animals, have special needs and require special care. Many health problems specific to old or older age may be discovered early and with proper handling may be averted or at least improved.

A thorough annual examination by a veterinarian, usually given at the time of yearly vaccinations, may reveal a potential health problem. Early treatment, at times as easy as adjustment of the dog's diet, may lead to very rewarding results. If your pet's needs are changing because of his or her age, ask your veterinarian for advice on proper care and nutrition to meet the changes.—by DR. K Gurnee Pet Clinic

For questions concerning the health of your pet ask Dr. "K." Send questions to: Ask Dr. "K", c/o Lakeland Newspapers, P.O. Box 268, Grayslake, IL 60030.

New Year Resolution

Lakeland
Newspapers

Greet the new year with financial resolutions

The Illinois CPA Society urges you to bring in the new year with a resolution to get your personal finances in shape. With an organized financial plan and the discipline to make it work, you're more likely to achieve financial security—and the peace of mind that comes with it.

• Get organized

The first step in taking control of your finances is to take control of related paperwork. Put your records in order and establish a filing system that will enable you to easily locate important documents that you may need during the year.

Create separate files for canceled checks, credit card receipts, bills and bank account statements that you need to review on a monthly basis. An efficient filing system will enable you to better understand how you're spending your money.

Be sure permanent records like birth certificates, insurance policies, your will and documents related to your assets, such as your home, car and securities, are in a safe, fireproof location.

Remember to tell another family member or financial advisor where these items are located in the event that you're unable to get to them yourself.

• Set financial goals... and save

Clearly identify both short-term and long-term financial goals. This means deciding what you want to achieve and by when. If you're married, be sure to involve your spouse in the process. Set achievable milestones and place them in priority order.

For example, if you have a newborn, you may want to set aside $1,000 this year for your child's college fund. However, you may also want to save a portion of your money for a short-term goal, such as renovating your house. Creating a monthly budget will help you to control how you spend your money and enable you to achieve both your short- and long-term goals.

Part of your budget should include payments to your savings account or another savings vehicle. Be systematic. Aim to save at least 10 percent of your take-home pay every pay period. Remember, meeting your financial goals depends on your ability to adhere to a well-defined savings strategy.

• Eliminate consumer debt

One of the smartest moves you can make in today's economy is reducing or eliminating your debts. Although interest rates reached a 15-year low during the past year, this decrease was not reflected in the rates charged by many credit card companies and other consumer lenders. As a result, high interest rates may be adding substantial amounts to the purchase price of items that you bought on credit.

• Diversify your investments

If you've limited your investment strategy to savings accounts in a local bank, you may also be limiting how well your money can work for you. Investigate other investment options, such as stocks, municipal bonds, Treasury bills, and U.S. Savings Bonds. Balance your investments between those that can be readily converted to cash, such as money market accounts and short-term certificates of deposit and longer-term fixed-income investments, such as tax-exempt bonds and equities.

• Build an emergency fund

Given the uncertain economy and the length of time it now takes to find a new job, it is wise to keep at least a year's worth of living expenses in an emergency fund. This will brace you for any financial troubles that may lie ahead.

• Contribute to retirement plans

The money you contribute to individual retirement accounts, simplified employee pension plans, Keoghs and 401(k) plans earns interest tax-deferred. By making contributions early in the year, you'll obtain the benefit of earning a year of interest that compounds tax-free. What's more, the greater your contributions, the more you can reduce your adjusted gross income and increase the value of exemptions and other deductions, such as medical expenses and miscellaneous itemized deductions, that are based on, or limited to, a percentage of your adjusted gross income.

• Review your insurance

Be sure you have enough life and disability coverage to provide for your family's financial future if you die or cannot work. Also, check your homeowner's insurance policy to be certain your coverage is up to date, and that your premium will cover your home and its possessions for at least 80 percent of their replacement cost.

• Take stock in your estate

Many people seriously underestimate the value of their estates, causing their heirs to be burdened with unnecessarily high estate taxes. To avoid this situation, take the time now to estimate your total assets, including your cash, life insurance, pension or profit-sharing benefits and stocks. Be sure to include your personal property, such as cars, antiques, collectibles and jewelry. If the total value of your estate is more than $600,000—the level at which federal estate tax is imposed—it's time to consider some tax-saving ways to distribute your assets to your heirs.

• Do your 1992 taxes early

Get started on your 1992 tax return. Gather documents such as medical bills, receipts for business-related expenses and canceled checks for charitable contributions which you'll need in order to substantiate valuable tax deductions.

"James Dorsey gets students to think. He plays devil's advocate in class so we see the strengths and weaknesses of each side of an argument."

"I've learned a lot about sociology in his class, but the most important thing he's taught me is to stand my ground when I believe in something, even if the whole class disagrees."

—Chris Bratze, criminal justice major

New Year Resolution

Realistic healthy resolutions tips to keep

It's once again that time of year. Time to get back into routine after the holidays and make that New Year's resolution. Making a resolution can be easy. But keeping it can sometimes be a task.

"One of the most important things to do when setting your New Year's resolution is to make sure it's realistic," said Sarah Bieber, behavioral consultant, Victory Memorial Hospital. "In a society that desires instant gratification, it can be easy to set resolutions that are unrealistic and hard to keep."

If you're one of the many who are setting a new goal for 1993, here are some tips from the experts at Victory's New Directions Program to help you make a resolution you're sure to stick to:

- If exercising is part of your resolution, make sure you pick something you like. If you like the sport or exercise, you'll be more apt to stick to it and enjoy yourself while doing it.

- Plan out a schedule and put it in a place that you'll remember. If it's on the refrigerator every morning, you won't have the excuse to forget.

- Be patient. If it took you a while to gain those extra pounds, don't expect to lose them in a short time. It takes about 3,500 calories to gain one pound, and will take 3,500 calories less to lose one.

- Be gentle on yourself. Lose weight gradually and slowly.

- Take time out to establish good communication in relationships this year so that you can talk out any temptations to break your resolution(s).

- Becoming less stressed, avoiding procrastination and planning ahead are important tools to help in keeping your resolution(s).

- If you decide to quit smoking this year, make sure you really want to and set your mind to it.

- Try an alternative to smoking. Cloves are something that you can have your hands on and put in your mouth in place of a cigarette. The full flavor also helps to avoid snacking.

Resolving to get your life under control once again

Many of us plan to be more organized during the new year. We resolve to plan better, keep track of finances better and maintain a tighter and more effective schedule. We often buy an expensive daily organizer to help us become more organized, however, a daily organizer doesn't do much when it's sitting at the bottom of a drawer.

Learning how to use a planner is not as easy as it sounds. If you resolved to become more organized this year, you had better know how to use one.

Getting organized is one thing. Staying organized is a lot harder. The following is a collection of helpful hints to help you with your new year.

- Don't leave home (or anywhere) without it. By carrying your organizer like a purse or wallet, phone numbers and calendars will always be convenient.

- Use one book for home and office. Carrying one organizer eliminate duplication of effort and helps you avoid scheduling conflicts.

- Use several calendars. Monthly calendars keep long-term goals in sight. Weekly and daily calendars are handy for remembering details — appointments, to do's and notes.

- Belated no more. To remember birthdays and key dates, pencil them in monthly calendars a year in advance. Transfer reminders to daily pages at the start of each month.

- Dear diary. Use daily pages to track diets, exercise plans, expenses and ongoing business activities such as sales calls. The sense of accomplishment (or guilt) is a powerful motivator.

- Think SSF. To find information fast, sift it, sort it and file it in your organizer's A to Z directory or create special tabbed sections for your boss, co-workers and family members.

Make your future a resolution

It's never too late to make resolutions for the future. One way to ensure a safe future is to resolve to prepare yourself for wintry conditions on the roadway. You've resolved to clean out that trunk of yours, why not fill it back up with the necessities you need for safe driving.

According to the Emergency Management Agency, you should start with a 2- or 3-pound coffee can and fill it with the following:

- Candy, dried fruits, instant coffee or tea, dry soup, and bouillon cubes. Chocolate and dried fruits are good quick-energy sources to help produce body heat if you are stranded in a blizzard. The coffee can will double as a container to heat the soup, tea, etc., to keep your body warm.

- Aspirin, bandages and essential prescription medicines. A safer alternative is to keep a well-stocked first aid kit in your vehicle at all times.

- A compass, several books of matches, a small flashlight with extra batteries, a small, wide-base candle, spoons, insulated cups and a small pie tin.

- Place gloves or mittens and a ski mask and stocking cap with the kit in the back seat of your vehicle. Wearing the mask and cap are especially important if stranded in a blizzard because of 50 to 75 percent of body heat is lost through the head.

- Also carry extra blankets, salt or sand, a shovel, a fire extinguisher and an extra coffee can for sanitary purposes.

What's wrong with your video? Resolve to shoot like a director

Every time you invite friends and family to watch your home videos, you get grunts, groans and sighs. Nobody wants to see your videos. Did you ever wonder why?

Maybe because they poorly shot.

Make it a new year's resolution to take better videos throughout the year. Here are some tips to help you get picture-perfect results:

- Be prepared. Test all new equipment before you begin shooting. Take a few moments to plan your shots and take suggestions from other family members.

- Get establishing shots first. Start out with a sweep of the landscape, party scene or family dinner, then move in for close-ups.

- Look for a camcorder that features an extended zoom lens to be sure you won't miss that once-in-a-lifetime shot.

- Keep things informal. Posing shots can work well for still photography, but look unnatural on video. Follow the sound of laughter and you're likely to get some fantastic footage.

- Don't be afraid to shoot too much tape. You can always edit later.

- Use a camcorder that makes taping easy and fun, whether you're shooting a romp in the snow or a holiday party.

- Don't get left out — get in the video yourself! Teach another family member the basics of using your camcorder and make a point of being part of the action now and then. Years — even days — from now, you'll be glad you did.

Play it safe when outdoors

Even though it's too early to start thinking about sunbathing, it's never too late to make a resolution about sun sense. There could be a ray of hope for people concerned about over-exposure to UV light now that earth's ozone layer has been reduced.

If you use some sun sense, you can protect yourself from harmful rays.

- If you must sunbathe, spend only 20 to 30 minutes the first day and increase your sun time by no more than 30 minutes each day.

- Use a sunscreen or sunblock lotion with an SPF of at least 10 to 15 when you're out in the sun.

- Wear a broad-rimmed hat and UV-screening sunglasses to protect your eyes.
